THE GUYS WHO WON THE WAR

Red Siege Of Camp Is Broken

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

About 3,000 South Vietnamese troops have broken the siege of a government camp surrounded for more than a week by Communist soldiers, a Saigon military source said today.

In Cambodia, Communist gunners shelled a Phnom Penh suburb where a similar attack killed nine persons over the weekend.

A Hanoi Radio broadcast heard in Saigon claimed that "tens of thousands" of U.S. military men are remaining in South Vietnam in civilian clothes "hiding themselves in diplomatic offices, day and night, commanding the Saigon armed forces in invasion operations" against areas controlled by the Viet Cong.

The U.S. command in Saigon says only about 6,300 American servicemen remain in South Vietnam.

A South Vietnamese military source said today 3,000 Saigon troops supported by tanks and warplanes last night lifted the siege of Rach Bap, a 100-man government base 20 miles north of the capital. Saigon claimed the Communists encircled the base in violation of the Jan. 28 cease-fire and said Wednesday's government military operation was the second largest since the truce took effect.

"The pressure was lifted shortly after nightfall," the source said, "and the operation is now complete." He said the Communists besieging Rach Bap apparently fled.

However, military spokesmen said the situation was still "critical" at another besieged camp surrounded by Communists. They said 200 rounds of Communist artillery and mortar fire hit the Tong Le Vhan border ranger camp 50 miles north of Saigon today. There was no report of casualties.

The camp, only 5½ miles from the Cambodian border, has been under Communist attack since last week and heavy ground fire has prevented government helicopters from taking out the wounded. Military sources said the Communists were firing on the base from inside Cambodia.

The high command in Cambodia said Communist gunners sent mortar shells and rifle fire into the Phnom Penh suburb of Takhamu Wednesday night but gave no casualty figures. The Communists shelled the suburb Sunday, killing nine persons and wounding several others.

U.S. Pacific Forces command headquarters in Honolulu said U.S. warplanes, including B52 bombers, struck Communist positions and supply routes in Cambodia Wednesday for the 15th consecutive day. Military sources said much of the bombing was concentrated on Highway 1, which connects Phnom Penh with Saigon.

Rising Meat Prices Slowed By Boycott

Nixon's Economic Chief Says Something Working

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's chief economic adviser said today a consumer boycott "seems to be having an effect" in slowing the rise of wholesale meat prices.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, also called the current surge in food prices a "temporary situation." He urged labor leaders not to make it the basis for heavy wage increase demands in contract bargaining this year.

Without advocating the boycott principle, Stein indicated that the sudden switch in buying habits by housewives at supermarkets seemed to have contributed to a drop in wholesale meat prices in the past week.

Part of the reason could be an increase in the number of cattle and hogs coming to market, Stein said, but he told a news conference "something seems to be working back from the demand side.

"So the boycott or consumer resistance, which doesn't necessarily take the form of parades, seems to be having an effect."

Meantime in California wholesale meat prices declined and a drop of from five to six cents a pound was predicted for next week on beef, lamb and pork sold in California supermarkets.

Wholesale prices for beef carcasses went down from two to three cents a pound, pork from five to seven cents and lamb about three cents.

An executive for one of the state's largest supermarket groups pointed out, however, that the reductions forecast for next week will only put retail prices back where they were last week.

He said his stores sold round steak for $1.39 last week, $1.45 this week and expect to sell it for $1.39 next week.

Cal Santare, Western State Meat Packers Association vice president, said the drop in wholesale beef prices in 11 western states was made partly to avoid a governmental freeze.

"It does not reflect any decrease in prices wholesalers are paying for live animals nor does it reflect any consumer boycott," he added.

In reply to a question, Stein said he did not think the economy was expanding too fast, a danger he has warned of often. "I don't see our problems coming from overheating of the economy," he said.

Stein said earlier that "we're concerned about" a possible wage spiral following disclosure by the government Wednesday that food prices rose at a record one-month pace of 2.4 per cent in February, with other living costs also rising for an overall one-month gain of 0.8 per cent in consumer prices.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, whose union affiliates will be involved in numerous wage contract negotiations this year, did not mention wages in a statement on the February prices, but he strongly criticized administration economic policy.

Stein said, "We think this is not a permanent situation. We think February was quite un-

Threat Made On Freeing POWs

SAIGON (UPI) — The Communists said today new American demands that include an accounting of nine prisoners of war held in Laos may postpone the release of the 147 remaining American POWs for several days. The Communists previously indicated the last prisoners would be freed this weekend.

The North Vietnamese said the prisoners might still be sent home according to the tentative weekend schedule if the United States tears up a letter from Brig. Gen. John A. Wickham, deputy chief of the U.S. delegation to the Joint Military Commission (JMC).

Wickham unexpectedly demanded today that U.S. prisoners actually be on their way home and the Communists make arrangements for the release of POWs from Laos before the last of American troops are sent home. He had said yesterday the American troops might be withdrawn by next Sunday to coincide with the POW release ahead of the next Wednesday schedule.

Today Wickham said withdrawal of the Americans would be halted until the North Vietnamese produce a list of seven U.S. military and two civilians held in Laos, with details on the date, place and method of their release. He gave the Communists until 10 a.m. tomorrow (9 p.m. EST today) to do this.

There are about 6,300 American troops still in Vietnam. Wickham said all but about 1,000 would be sent home by March 28, the deadline set by the Paris cease-fire agreement both for troop withdrawal and prisoner release.

He said 825 of those remaining would be assigned to the four-party JMC, which is scheduled to go out of existence after March 28. Of the others, 50 would be assigned to the Defense Attache Office (DAO) and 159 would be assigned to the U.S. Embassy as security personnel.

Reaction from the Viet Cong was swift. Lt. Gen. Tran Van Tra, head of the Viet Cong delegation to the JMC, said Wickham had reneged on his agreement and that all American troops, including the 825 Wickham said were assigned to the JMC, would have to be sent home before the prisoners are released.

Tra said the Viet Cong had been ready to turn over the final list of its 31 prisoners today when Wickham made his demands. He said the prisoners were to be released Saturday in Hanoi. North Vietnam had offered to release 107 POWs on Sunday.

"But at the present time because of the violation (of the troop withdrawal agreement) by the United States side, we are temporarily suspending the turnover of the list of American military personnel to be released and those foreign civilian prisoners who are presently being held while we wait for an answer from the United States side," he said.

While the Viet Cong based its objections principally on the U.S. position on troop withdrawals, the North Vietnamese said its major objection was the demand for arrangements being made for the release of prisoners in Laos.

ITT Executive Tells Of 1970 Scheme For Chile

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An executive of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. said today he talked with a CIA agent in 1970 about plans designed to create economic chaos in Chile after the election of Marxist Salvador Allende as president that year.

Edward J. Gerrity, a senior ITT vice president for corporate relations, told Senate investigators that he discussed the plans with William V. Broe, a CIA agent in charge of clandestine operations in Latin America. He did not say how the plans were initiated. Documents submitted earlier to the panel suggested the plans evolved from previous discussions between officials of the company and the Central Intelligence Agency.

ITT was concerned at the time that Allende would carry out a campaign pledge to nationalize the Chilean Telephone Co., a $150 million ITT subsidiary. Allende kept the promise after his election was affirmed in October, 1970, by Chile's Congress, which had to decide the contest because no candidate got a majority of the popular vote in the September election.

Gerrity said he met with Broe on Sept. 29, 1970. A cable sent on the same date from Gerrity to ITT President Harold S. Genee, then in Brussels, said Broe proposed that all American firms "in a position to do so" should close their businesses in Chile. The cable also referred to steps to cause the collapse of savings and loan institutions in Chile, withdrawal of all technical help and the delay or rejection by banks of further credits for Chile.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, asked Gerrity: "Clearly all these recommendations are designed to create economic chaos in Chile, are they not?"

"Yes, sir," Gerrity replied.

Church is head of a special Senate subcommittee investigating charges that ITT tried to prevent Allende's election and to disrupt the Chilean economy after he won.

In testimony Wednesday, Robert Berrellez, an ITT public relations official based in Argentina, said he made an implicit offer of financial aid to Arturo Matte, brother-in-law and chief adviser to Jorge Alessandri, the conservative national presidential candidate.

Congress Handed Crime Code Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration today sent Congress 680 pages of revisions in federal criminal statutes including new restrictions on insanity as a defense and tougher laws against obscenity.

If enacted by the Senate and House, the bill would become the first complete revision of the criminal code since 1790.

Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst said the bill, a product of more than two years of work by Justice Department lawyers, provides "a rational, integrated code which is both workable and responsive to the demands of our 20th century society."

The measure would substitute a single paragraph for a tangle of 130 years of case law governing insanity as a defense for crime. In his State of the Union report on crime last week, President Nixon said present law has led "to unconscionable abuse by defendants" of the insanity plea.

Insanity would be a defense only if the crime requires an element of intent and the defendant's mind is so beclouded that he cannot form such an intent. Mental disease or defect would not otherwise constitute a defense.

It would no longer matter if the defendant could tell right from wrong or if he was unable to conform his conduct to the requirements of society.

The measure also tightens the definitions of obscenity, apparently enough to ban throughout the nation motion pictures such as "Deep Throat" and explicit sex books.

Obscene material would be defined as "an explicit representation, or detailed written or verbal description, of an act of sexual intercourse...or violence indicating a sadomasochistic sexual relationship; an explicit, close-up representation of a human genital organ."

Such material would be outlawed "unless it constitutes a minor portion of the whole product of which it is a party, is reasonably necessary and appropriate to the integrity of the product as a whole to fulfill an artistic, scientific or literary purpose and is not included primarily to stimulate prurient interest."

The test would be much more strict than the current law which prohibits matter which is offensive to community moral standards and is "utterly without redeeming social merit."

Smut dealers would be subject to imprisonment for up to three years.

The bill also incorporates

Gray Testifies Dean 'Lied' In FBI Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — L. Patrick Gray III testified today that White House Counsel John W. Dean III apparently "lied" to FBI agents last June 22 about whether a figure in the Watergate bugging case, E. Howard Hunt, had a White House office.

The matter arose in questioning of Gray by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., at Senate hearings on Gray's nomination to be permanent FBI director.

Gray said that Dean was sitting in on an FBI interview with another White House aide at the time and said "I'll have to check it out" when asked if Hunt had a White House office.

"Did Dean lie to the agents?" Byrd asked Gray.

"Looking back, I would have to conclude that your judgment is correct," Gray said.

During his questioning of Gray, Byrd —a leader in efforts by some Democrats to block confirmation —elicited from the acting FBI chief the information that at the time, Dean had in his own safe material, including a gun, taken from Hunt's White House safe, but did not tell the FBI about it.

Gray said he understood the contents of Hunt's safe, also including excerpts from the Pentagon Papers, were lodged in Dean's safe June 20, three days after the break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters at the Watergate building.

Dean was present, Gray said, at an interview the FBI conducted with Charles Colson, then a top White House aide, but made no mention that he had the safe contents in his office.

Hunt was one of seven persons indicted in the break-in and bugging of the Democratic offices and subsequently pleaded guilty. He and the other six defendants are due for sentencing Friday.

The material from Hunt's safe was turned over to the FBI June 26 and subsequently was used as evidence in the trial, Gray said.

Gray said earlier that the FBI investigation of the Watergate case was resuming. "Yes, sir, the FBI is being directed by the Justice Department to look into certain areas," he told Byrd. He declined to give further details.

Younger Backs County's Plan For Preserving Bolinas Lagoon

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Attorney General Evelle J. Younger sided yesterday with Marin County officials who want Bolinas Lagoon kept as an ecological preserve and not turned into a pleasure boat playground.

Younger's legal opinion says, in effect, that Marin's plan to keep the lagoon an ecological preserve meets legislative requirements imposed in 1969 when the state-controlled lagoon was turned over to the county.

The county's plan, developed by the parks and recreation department, permits the lagoon to be viewed but not touched. It proposes small picnic areas, "educational centers" and trails around the lagoon.

The plan is opposed by the Marine Parks and Harbors Association, a lobbying organization for pleasure boat owners, who want year-round access from the Pacific Ocean to the lagoon. Such access would require major dredging.

The attorney general's legal opinion was requested months ago by the state Lands Commission, which will decide next month whether the county's "Bolinas Lagoon Plan" fulfills the terms under which the lagoon was turned over to the county.

Prior to the 1969 turnover, the future of the lagoon was in the hands of a local harbor district, which drew the anger of West Marin residents when it proposed massive development of the picturesque lagoon.

The district was dissolved by West Marin voters in 1969 and later that year Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, secured legislation transferring control to the county board of supervisors.

A condition to the transfer was that the county develop a master plan for the lagoon.

Authorized uses include a small craft harbor, fishing piers and other recreational facilities or simply ecological preservation.

Bomb Threat During Evening Classes

Some evening classes were disrupted at Sonoma State College yesterday after a telephoned bomb threat was received at 7:15 p.m.

Public affairs officer Carl Campbell said Stevenson Hall, one of the main classroom buildings, was evacuated and searched. He said classes were moved to other campus buildings for the remainder of the evening.

PRISONER SOUVENIR — Mrs. Ronald Reagan broke into tears when Navy Cmdr. Charles E. Southwick of Sausalito gave her a spoon from the prisoner of war camp in which he had been held captive since May 14, 1967. Gov. and Mrs. Reagan entertained 21 former war prisoners at a private dinner party in the executive mansion last night, with the governor's wife hugging and kissing each of the men.

Reagans Welcome 21 Prisoners At Executive Mansion Dinner

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Gov. and Mrs. Ronald Reagan hosted a private dinner party Wednesday for 21 returning prisoners of war with the governor telling them "we love you all" and his wife hugging and kissing each former POW.

Mrs. Reagan broke into tears when Navy Cmdr. Charles E. Southwick of Sausalito gave her a spoon he had used while in prison.

"I'm glad you'll never have to eat with one of those things again," Reagan told Southwick, who was shot down during a mission over North Vietnam May 14, 1967.

When Navy Cmdr. Richard A. Stratton was greeted in front of the governor's mansion, he hoisted Nancy Reagan off her feet and swayed her back and forth in his arms.

"Thank you, darling," the Quincy, Mass., native told Mrs. Reagan. "Thank you for taking good care of my family."

After giving him a big kiss on the cheek, Mrs. Reagan replied: "No. Thank you. You've taken good care of us—that's the way it goes."

After the party, which he said was "lovely," Stratton explained that his family had stayed in Palo Alto during his imprisonment and "the State of California had taken good care of us."

The governor instantly recognized Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez Jr., the longest held U.S. prisoner in North Vietnam.

"I'm a fan of yours already from television," Reagan told the Santa Clara naval officer.

"This has been a wish of mine for a long time," Alvarez replied.

The dinner party was the first in a series of special events planned by the Reagans for returning POWs to "express our gratitude and love to these splendid men who have made us so proud to be Americans," the governor said.

"We had a beautiful time at the party," Stratton said. "There just simply is no bad day in the U.S.A."

Air West Among Small Carriers Hit By Nader

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Claiming subsidy payments seem to increase as service decreases, a Ralph Nader-backed consumer group today filed a complaint against eight small airlines for providing "substandard service."

The Aviation Consumer Action Project (ACAP) lodged the complaint with the Civil Aeronautics Board against Allegheny, Frontier, Air West, North Central, Ozark, Piedmont, Southern, and Texas International.

According to the complaint, 149 out of the 190 small cities served by the airlines received less than two round trip flights per day. Forty four of the cities did not "even get one daily round trip," the complaint claimed.

Terming the lack of service a violation of the Federal Aviation Act, the group urged the CAB to withhold "further subsidy payments" until the airlines provide more service.

In 1970, the local service airlines were paid $34 million in subsidies. In 1970, the total jumped to $65 million and is estimated at $73 million for 1973, ACAP's executive director, K. G. Pillai said.

But despite the increase in subsidy payment, Pillai said the airlines furnished air service to 190 cities in 1972, 60 less than in 1969.

According to ACAP's complaint, the subsidy payments paid by the CAB to the small airlines are used "to make up losses sustained on their routes to major cities."

Out of a $65 million subsidy paid in fiscal year 1972, only $19 million "was utilized for service to small communities," the complaint charged.

State Eyes Court Ruling On Schools

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court's ruling on public school financing may not affect an earlier opinion by California's highest court, according to state Supreme Court Chief Justice Donald R. Wright.

Wright, who joined five other justices in issuing the landmark 1971 opinion in the Seranno case, said the final decision on how California can fund its schools might still be based entirely on the state constitution.

In a 5-4 decision Wednesday, the U.S. Supreme Court held that property taxes were a constitutional means of financing public schools and do not discriminate against the poor. The method has been contested on grounds that richer districts could offer better education for children than poor ones.

In the Seranno opinion, the state Supreme Court ruled that the current method of property tax financing in California was unfair because of the disparate amount of money spent per child between poor and wealthy districts.

It did not, however, rule out the use of some sort of property tax funding for schools.

Wright pointed out that although the cases were different, they involved similar provisions of the U.S. and state constitutions.

With regard to California, Wright said, "The federal action alone would not necessarily be controlling. State grounds might still control the eventual outcome of Serano."

Wright added that he was "disturbed" that the U.S. Supreme Court decision was by a narrow 5-4 margin. A larger majority, he said, "would carry a whole lot more convincing force. It would to me anyway."

The chief justice made his comments in an interview with Martin Salditch, Sacramento correspondent for the Riverside Press-Enterprise.

Gov. Ronald Reagan said he was "gratified" by the U.S. Supreme Court ruling because "it reaffirms the right of local school districts" to control their own programs.

Currently, the Seranno case is being heard in Los Angeles Superior Court.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Time Too Short

VIENTIANE (UPI) — Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma said yesterday time is too limited to make possible the establishment of a national coalition government within the deadline stipulated by the Feb. 21 cease-fire agreement.

He said formation of the coalition would depend on further development this weekend or early next week.

Souvanna said the Pathet Lao leader in Vientiane will go to his headquarters in northernmost Laos today with government messages and proposals.

Strike Violence

LA PLATA, Argentina (UPI) — Army troops used tanks and mortars in a battle last night against striking policemen who barricaded themselves in their headquarters during a strike for more pay.

First reports said three men died.

Police and firemen took over their own headquarters in defiance of orders they report to army commanders and go on military status. Shooting broke out when regular army units using tanks, mortars and heavy machineguns moved in to clear the headquarters.

Woman Facing Extradition On Torture Charges

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hermine Ryan, a New York housewife accused of torturing concentration camp inmates during World War II, will be turned over to federal officials today to face extradition proceedings to West Germany, a federal source said.

The source said Mrs. Ryan's attorney, John Barry, will surrender her at Brooklyn Federal Court where she will probably be held pending the extradition hearing. Two countries, West Germany and Poland, have requested her extradition.

The case of the 53-year-old Mrs. Ryan has been before the Immigration and Naturalization Service since last summer. Witnesses have testified that the quiet, heavy-boned woman used clubs, whips and police dogs against prisoners at the Maidanek concentration camp in Poland.

Dollar Retreats

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The American dollar retreated slightly today from yesterday's strong showing on most European money exchanges.

A financial expert in Brussels said such minor fluctuations in the dollar's exchange rate were normal.

The dollar opened on the Frankfurt exchange at 2.8250 German marks, down from yesterday's closing of 2.8290 marks. In London, the pound cost $2.4765 in early trading as compared to yesterday's closing of $2.4725. In Brussels the dollar brought 38.96 Belgian francs today, down from yesterday's 38.995 francs.

Svoboda Reelected

PRAGUE (UPI) — Parliament unanimously reelected President Ludvik Svoboda today as expected — he was the only candidate — but the official news agency CTK did not refer to diplomatic reports he would serve for life.

"Army general Ludvik Svoboda was unanimously reelected Czechoslovak president by the Federal Assembly in a secret ballot today," the news agency said.

Diplomats said earlier that not only would parliament reelect the 77-year-old Svoboda, but would name him to the post for life.

Power Extended

ANKARA (UPI) — Lawmakers battled in parliament yesterday, then approved a plan sponsored by military commanders that will extend the term of President Cevdet Sunay by two years.

The commanders warned earlier they would seize power unless civilian members of parliament came up with a plan that would end a deadlock in the election of a new president.

Members of the dominant Justice party and the Democratic party hurled chairs and flowerpots at each other during an uproar that pjceded a decision to go along with the military commanders in resolving the deadlock.

UAW Pact Talk

DETROIT (UPI) — A group of dissident United Auto Workers members today demanded a confrontation with the "Big Three" auto company negotiators this summer over working conditions.

Members of the United National Caucus, a relatively small group within the 1.5-million member UAW, planned to confront the 3,600 delegates to the special three-day convention to formulate a collective bargaining for the 1973 contract negotiations.

"The only way to solve the problems of speedups, disciplinary penalties, compulsory overtime and all the other tough issues is by confrontation and crisis bargaining," said Paul Schrade of Los Angeles, a former regional director of the UAW.

Talks In Danger

PARIS (UPI) — South Vietnam and the Viet Cong blamed each other today for new fighting in Vietnam and said it could wreck their talks on the political future of the country.

Saigon negotiator Nguyen Luu Vien said the Communists were responsible for new fighting around Tong Le Chan, north of Saigon.

"Saigon has deliberately and cruelly committed a grave violation of the Paris agreement by launching military operations against the liberated zones," said Nguyen Van Hieu, a Viet Cong spokesman.

A Cautious Welcome To Ulster Plan

BELFAST (UPI) — The main Roman Catholic party in Northern Ireland gave a cautious welcome today to the British plan for Ulster's political future.

The Social Democratic and Labor Party (SDLP), which represents most Catholics in the province, issued a carefully worded statement after its leaders considered the British government's white paper on Northern Ireland for nearly 48 hours.

"We recognize clearly that the proposals represented in some areas are an advance on our previous position, while in others we must express both our reservations and our disappointments," the statement said.

The statement was issued at a news conference in a hotel in Pomeroy, County Tyrone, where the SDLP met in secrecy for security reasons.

The SDLP's cautiously worded welcome contrasted with rejection of the white paper Wednesday by a meeting of Protestant political leaders in Belfast.

The Catholics said their chief disappointment with the British proposal was that it called only for talks on the establishment of a "Council of Ireland" rather than going on record for the creation of the group. The talks will include Britain, the Irish Republic and Ulster's Catholics and Protestants.

Panel Formed To Study Possible Consolidation

The Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission has formed a committee to study possible consolidation with the county juvenile justice commission.

According to Leroy J. Syrop, commission chairman, the committee was appointed Tuesday, and will meet with the justice commission next month.

Syrop said a consolidation would reduce the duplication of services in dealing with juvenile delinquency problems.

The juvenile delinquency prevention commission was established on a voluntary basis by the county board of supervisors, to which it is answerable.

The juvenile justice comission, meanwhile, is required under state law, and is answerable only to county judges. Unlike the juvenile delinquency prevention commission, it has no staff.

Kloo Lake on the Alaska Highway, north of Whitehorse, Yukon, was named after the Indian name for fish.

Graham Believes In Death Penalty

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — Evangelist Billy Graham said today the United States should revive the death penalty for some crimes and suggested that rapists should be castrated.

Graham, on a two week "crusade" in South Africa, told a news conference, "I think there should be capital punishment for certain crimes. I think that where capital punishment is administered equally—to white and black—it's been proved to be a deterrent."

Asked about punishing rapists, Graham said, "I think when a person is found guilty of rape he should be castrated—that would stop him pretty quick."

Bid Opening Set On Project

Bids on the reconstruction of the intersection of Shoreline Highway and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Olema will be opened April 18 in Sacramento by the California Division of Highways.

The T intersection is now controlled by three stop signs. Bids call for installation of flashing beacons to alert motorists.

The State Division of Highways has $20,000 for the project and Marin County has $5,050.

10,000 Watch An Execution

SAN SALVADOR (UPI) — A convicted rapist died in front of a national guard firing squad Wednesday while a crowd estimated at 10,000 persons watched. He said he agreed he should die for his crime.

Emilio Aguilar Orellana was condemned on charges of raping a 10-year-old girl in 1970.

The execution took place 41 miles from the El Salvador capital. It attracted huge crowds with the national guard closing the area to traffic. Some persons complained they were beaten by soldiers trying to keep order among spectators.

Kerner's Counsel Seeking New Trial

CHICAGO (UPI) — Attorneys for former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, convicted Feb. 19 of bribery, conspiracy, mail fraud, income tax evasion and perjury, filed motions Wednesday asking for a new trial.

Paul Connolly, Kerner's chief defense lawyer, also renewed a motion he had made during the trial asking for a directed judgment of acquittal.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Sentencing Set In Check Case

Patricia Ann Halajian, 20, who also uses several other names, has been ordered to appear April 9 in Marin Superior Court for sentencing on fraudulent checks.

The Cupertino woman entered a guilty plea yesterday before Judge Joseph G. Wilson after being bound over from municipal court where she had admitted passing bad checks in a San Rafael billiard parlor last November.

San Rafael police arrested her March 5 on a warrant. Officers said she also uses the names Patricia Ann Karen Hoyman and Mary Frances Dunham.

CRIME

Nixon's proposals to restore the death penalty and to tighten penalties for narcotics law violations. Both those provisions were previously sent to Congress as separate bills.

The measure establishes nine classes of crimes with penalties ranging from five days to life in prison. Kleindienst said the prison terms were generally similar to those provided for similar offenses under present law.

The bill sharply increases maximum fines, however, in part to keep up with inflation and in part to make them hurt the rich as well as the poor, the attorney general said.

The bill would specifically prohibit any individual with access to classified government documents from giving them to anyone not entitled to receive them. The giver would be guilty of a crime but the recipient would not be unless he was a foreign spy.

The measure would not permit the defendant to claim the documents should not have been classified—one of the key elements in Daniel Ellsberg's defense in the Pentagon Papers trial.

Assistant Attorney General Henry Peterson insisted the provision made only mild changes in existing law. He said it should not be compared to Britain's "Official Secrets Act."

Man Acquitted On Charges Of Child Molesting

After almost a year in Marin County courts, a San Rafael man has been found innocent of child molesting.

Lorenzo Amato (Larry) Petretti, 49, has been acquitted by a jury in Municipal Judge David R. Baty's court after a three-day trial. Petretti was tried on five misdemeanor counts of molesting 8-year-old and 9-year-old girls who were tenants in a Canal Street apartment building Petretti managed.

He originally was indicted last April by the Marin County Grand Jury on felony charges, but that case was dismissed in Superior Court. The district attorney refiled a felony complaint, but the counts were reduced to misdemeanors after a preliminary hearing.

Biologist To Give Paper On Bay Oil Spill

Dr. Gordon L. Chan of the College of Marin biology department will present his research paper on the San Francisco Bay oil spill to a special symposium of the International Association of Biological Oceanographers and the Western Society of Naturalists.

The symposium, emphasizing the ecology of the Pacific Basin, will be held June 22 through July 2 aboard the M.V. Marco Polo cruising off the shore of Australia.

Chan's travel expenses will come from a grant given to the college for Chan's study of the oil spill.

Pleas Made On Felony Counts

Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith set separate preliminary hearings for Tuesday for Patrick Christian Carre, a 19-year-old Marine, and Michael James Madden, 20.

Carre was charged with grand theft although the defense attorney contended that only $2.58 and a pair of gloves were taken. Madden was charged with grand theft and also with assault with a deadly weapon. Two other youths arrested with the pair are being handled through juvenile court.

The five-lesson course includes information on dealing with all types of disasters including earthquakes, fires, floods, tidal waves, epidemics, civil disturbances and war emergencies.

Persons wishing to receive the course should contact the office of emergency services at the county administration building and the lessons will be mailed.

Eel Island Is Viewed For Refuge

A Strawberry woman, Monique Isarel of 212 East Strawberry Drive, has been named to head a citizens committee which will look into acquiring the tip of Eel Island for a wildlife refuge.

Her first action, said David E. Roberts, manager of the Strawberry Recreation District, will be to find out if extensive dredging is planned for the island, also called Strawberry Spit.

If this is the case, said Roberts, there "is no point in acquiring a refuge there" due to the heavy boat traffic which dredging would permit.

Roberts said plans for a 151-boat marina have been approved for the lagoon separating the "island," actually a man-made sandspit, from the east shore of the Strawberry Peninsula. If the marina is built, he said, the wildlife area would be useless.

Recreation district directors appointed Mrs. Isarel Monday to spearhead the acquisition effort and will pay her $15 per month to cover her car expenses, said Roberts. She will explore ways of raising funds to buy the land, said Roberts.

Deadline On Flood Disaster Loans April 10

Marin County flood victims who wish to apply for disaster loans from the Small Business Administration must submit applications before April 10, according to Robert C. Stevens, director of the President's office of Emergency Preparedness in San Francisco.

Victims may borrow up to $55,000 for home and personal losses at an interest rate of one per cent and with a forgiveness feature of $5,000. Loans cover businesses as well as homes and personal belongings, Stevens said.

Applications and questions may be sent to the Small Business Administration Region Office, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco.

Warehouse Plan Wins Approval

Plans for a metal warehouse were approved Wednesday night by the Petaluma Planning Commission.

Romac Pacific Co. of San Rafael received permission to build an 11,568-foot metal warehouse in the industrial park on Dynamic Street. Representatives said space in the warehouse will be rented.

In other business, the commission approved the request of Wilhelm Zipperle for an automotive repair garage at 700 and 702 Petaluma Boulevard South.

The commission also set public hearings for April 3 on plans by Newman B. Nelson for an office building at 210 Vallejo Street and plans by Michael J. Morgan for an ice vending machine on Copeland Street at East Washington Street.

Judge Orders Case Retried

Elzie Johnson Jr., 28, of San Rafael, will face a second Marin Superior Court trial May 7 on a charge of being an ex-felon in possession of a firearm.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson yesterday ordered Johnson retried after a one-day jury trial March 16 ended in a hung jury.

A small-caliber pistol was found in Johnson's home last Dec. 12 by state and county drug agents using a warrant in an unsuccessful search for drugs in the home. Johnson claimed the gun belonged to his wife.

Two Warehouse Plans Approved

The Novato Plan Review Committee last night approved plans for two warehouses to be built in Hamilton Industrial Park by Ronald Antonioli.

One warehouse will be 10,315 square feet and the other, 8,300, said Gary W. Holloway, planner.

The committee also approved plans for four model homes to be built on the north side of San Marin Drive at Sereno Way by Kaufman and Broad Inc.

Auto Harp Stolen

An auto harp valued at about $120 was stolen yesterday from an auto in front of 105 Forrest Avenue, Kathy LaRusso, owner of the instrument, reported to police.

"We always recognized that we were going to have a bulge in the early part of this year as a result of the food situation.

"But what we are saying — and we're quite confident, as we look at the food situation particularly, that in the latter part of this year, retail food prices will be rising very little —in the range of one to 2 per cent a year.

"And if we can get through this intervening period of a few months without setting off a big wage spiral —which is a problem we're concerned about — we're confident that we will come out to the end of the year with the nonfood things rising moderately as they have been, and with food contributing to a lower rate of inflation rather than a higher rate of inflation."

Stein left the door ajar Wednesday, in testimony before a new congressional subcommittee on consumer prices, for possible reimposition of wage-price controls. He said no decision had been made on what new steps would be taken to dampen inflation.

Aside from such areas as food prices, Stein said "the economy is behaving very well ... We are having a very strong economy and we think if we can manage this intervening period of uncertainty about inflation, we will come out to a very satisfactory condition."

The 0.8 per cent overall consumer increase last month was the largest for any month since February, 1951 —peak of Korean War era inflation.

ing the lagoon," Younger said, adding it met state requirements.

The Marine Parks and Harbors Association has protested the county's plan, saying, among other things, it should include facilities for a harbor of refuge for small craft.

Pierre W. Joske, county director of parks and recreation, said today he was pleased with the attorney general's opinion but noted the state lands commission can disregard it if it chooses.

He said he would appear at the commission's hearing next month, armed with Younger's opinion, to urge immediate state adoption of the county's plan.

Loss On Land Is Cleared Up

Three Mill Valley sisters, who own open land which would be affected by a proposed Mill Valley moratorium on development, do not pay $36,000 per year in interest and taxes on the property as stated in Tuesday's Independent-Journal.

Two of the sisters, Carmelita Silberberg and Ida M. Gross, told the Mill Valley City Council Monday they are "losing $36,000 a year in interest and taxes" and that they lost a $375,000 sale of the land because of city and county interest in acquiring it for open space.

Actually, Mrs. Silberberg said, the sisters pay $8,000 to $9,000 per year in taxes. The rest of the money, she said, would have been interest paid each year to the sisters had the sale gone through.

Escrow Explained.

Escrow is one of those terms we've all heard, but may not fully understand.

The Escrow Agent, usually a Title Company, acts as a neutral party between the buyer and seller of property. The Escrow Officer sees that all encumbrances are removed from the property, and also collects, holds, and distributes all funds and documents pertinent to the transfer of Title. The Escrow charge is normally paid by the purchaser along with the Title Insurance Fee, to insure a sound clear Title.

When Escrow is closed, all funds are dispersed to the proper parties, and the deeds are recorded. Your member Realtor of the Marin County Board of Realtors, can help you with any questions about Escrow, or anything else pertaining to the purchase or sale of property. And if you're selling a home be sure to place it on Multiple Listing. You'll have over 1000 salesmen selling it for you ... the member Realtors of the Marin County Board of Realtors. Check Peek Suit —$500 Million

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Richard L. Stark, Marin artist and espouser of radical causes, yesterday filed a $500 million suit against Wells Fargo Bank for making his canceled checks available to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The suit, filed in San Francisco Superior Court by attorney Stephen Adams, seeks $250 million general damages and $250 million punitive damages, plus attorney's fees, from the bank.

Stark discovered by accident last year that his checking account at the San Anselmo branch of Wells Fargo had been reviewed by FBI agents.

The revelation came when a bank clerk left an interdepartment memo wrapped around his checks when they were mailed with Stark's monthly statement.

The note read, "This memo is to authorize you to read checks to the FBI before sending the statement to the customer."

Since that time, the U.S. District Court in San Francisco ruled unconstitutional a law which took effect after the Stark incident, a law allowing the government to check banking records of individuals.

The case has not yet been decided at a higher court level.

Stark, 30, is the beneficiary of a trust fund set up by his mother, apparently found it no surprise that the FBI was interested in how he spends his money. He has backed radical organizations and causes for years and recently allowed the White Panthers to use his Corte Madera home as their headquarters.

He is currently living in San Rafael.

His lawyer, Adams, said today he was "not interested in Stark's politics," but rather considered the suit as a means of obtaining court protection against FBI snooping "that could happen to anybody."

Postal Plan Introduced By Clausen

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Legislation ordering the Postal Service to improve its delivery service was introduced yesterday by Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District.

The bill declares the Postal Service must provide one-day delivery within a community, three-day service anywhere within the 48 continental states, letter carrier service six days a week, post office window service six days a week, second attempts to deliver parcel post, and delivery and collection service more than once a day.

Clausen said the deterioration of postal service "is rapidly becoming intolerable, and this bill is intended to see that postal users get first-class service for the first-class prices they are required to pay."

A spokesman for Clausen said she did not know what the penalty would be if the Postal Service failed to comply with the bill.

His measure also orders the Postal Service to request funds from Congress to pay for the additional services. The bill was silent on what would happen if Congress failed to provide the funds.

Teens Charged With A Murder

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Two teen-aged boys were charged Tuesday with the shooting death of a mother killed while waiting outside a school gym to take her daughters home from a basketball game.

Homicide detectives said the youths, one a California Youth Authority parolee, fired a number of shots at random into a crowd outside the gym after a 17-year-old youth fired a bullet over the heads of several persons involved in a scuffle.

The officers said the two suspects admitted shooting Mrs. Kay Key, 35, last Friday night outside King Junior High. She died Saturday of head wounds.

Equipment Stolen

Wheel balance adapters valued at $515 have been stolen from the Union 76 station at 440 East Washington Street, Petaluma, police reported. Station attendants said the equipment had been missing since Sunday.

A Glimmer Of Hope On Flood Plans

The first glimmer of hope for the long-halted Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project through Ross appeared yesterday as members of the Ross Valley Flood Control Advisory Board were shown a proposal to relieve flooding in the town.

County Flood Control Engineer Charles E. Murphy said the board's five members looked at a $181,500 compromise drainage plan for Ross that was prepared by his department.

Ross and the County of Marin have been arguing in court over who should pay to relieve flooding problems on Ross Common and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. Ross contends the county — through the flood control zone — should pay an estimated $350,000 worth of work, while the county has said it's committed to spend only $60,000.

The Corte Madera Creek Flood control project, meanwhile, is halted at Ross's borders by a citizen's suit, Valentine vs. Ross. The town has claimed that it hasn't a chance of winning that case until town drainage problems are solved.

Murphy said the new plan, the cost of which would be negotiated between the zone and Ross, includes replacement and repair of existing culverts, and installing new storm drain pipelines down Laurel Avenue and Lagunitas Road.

The board discussed the compromise plan, said Murphy, then went into closed session to consider the legal aspects — emerging to announce it will resume the closed session tomorrow at 3 p.m. at Corte Madera town hall.

Man Robbed Of His Wallet

Two men armed with guns robbed a Sausalito man of his wallet containing $12 yesterday according to Marin City sheriff's deputies.

Officers said Leonard Hanitcham, 28, of Kappas Yacht Harbor, was driving into the parking lot at Gate 6 about midnight and had just parked his car when two men, both armed with hand guns, approached him.

Hanitcham was forced to drive the two to Marin City, officers said, where they relieved him of his wallet and fled. Both robbers were described as between 18 and 20 years old.

Sausalito Takes First Look At $35 Million Waterfront Proposal

Sausalito planning commissioners last night took their first look at a proposed $35 million waterfront development but delayed action until they can study it more closely.

Assistant Planner Jerry L. Cormack said commissioners were shown slides of a residential-commercial recreational project planned for the Schoonmaker property in the Marinship area, then continued the matter to the April 4 meeting.

The developer, O'Meara-Chandler Co., has requested a zone change and only after that is approved, said Cormack, could the panel consider approval of the development.

Cormack said he told the commission it could do any of three things: declare that present zoning, a combination of commercial, industrial and waterfront zones, is best, thus denying the project; recognize that the applicant has a good plan and approve changing zoning to planned unit development, or come up with a third choice.

The proposal, according to O'Meara-Chandler representative Henry W. Alexander, differs greatly from an earlier plan for the property, a 39.22-acre parcel lying east of Bridgeway and north of Napa Street.

The original plan called for 224 housing units and commercial and recreational facilities, and was rejected last fall by planners, who said that was too much housing.

The current proposal is for 100 condominiums, a 220-unit inn, two restaurants, shops, 13 tennis courts, two yacht clubs, berthing for 210 boats and 50 houseboats and a boat yard.

Parking for 1,150 cars would be provided, Alexander said, 200 under the condominiums, 900 under the tennis courts and 50 on the surface.

Alexander said the plan involves a small amount of fill where a dinghy basin is planned but he expects no opposition from the bay conservation and development commission, which must approve the project after the city has done so.

The inn's 220 units would be both in a large central building and in a series of so-called lanais stretching along the waterfront.

Alexander said an environmental impact report, prepared by a city-picked consultant, shows the project would produce $550,000 more annually in tax revenue for local jurisdictions than it would cost them.

Some 15.5 acres of the parcel is water. Of the land area, said Alexander, one-quarter will be occupied by structures, leaving 75 per cent in some type of open space — tennis courts, roads, pedestrian walkways and parks.

Partners in the venture are Ted Schoonmaker, president of A. G. Schoonmaker Co., which has occupied the property for shipbuilding and marine repairs since the end of World War II; Environmental Systems International, an architectural firm presently located in Los Angeles which would move its headquarters to the development, and O'Meara-Chandler.

20-Year-Old Has Left Job Of Mayor

NEWCOMERSTOWN, Ohio (UPI) — Ron Hooker, 20, once one of the country's youngest mayors, has officially been replaced by Charles E. Holdsworth, 55, this eastern Ohio community's council president pro tempore.

Hooker, who was elected mayor when he was 19 years old, resigned the part-time post earlier this month, saying he wanted to devote more time to his school teaching job. Although Hooker refused to comment further on his resignation, some community officials said personnel problems in the police department may have led to his quitting. Hooker had been elected to a four-year term in 1971.

Opera Fund Drive

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Opera, financially in the black after two good seasons, announced a $5 million endowment drive Wednesday and the receipt of a $1 million gift from an anonymous donor.

THE FACTS ON AUTO LOANS and why THIS BANK CAN SAVE YOU UP TO $200 OR MORE

A NEW APPROACH TO AUTO LOANS

Instead of first selecting your new car—and then negotiating your loan, do it the other way around. Get your loan commitment first. Then go out and buy your car. You'll have a secure feeling in the showroom because you've already arranged for the money. And if you have an auto loan with California Canadian Bank—you have a loan at the lowest interest rates and the best terms in town. You may save $200 or more.

FACT:
CALIFORNIA CANADIAN BANK WILL LOAN YOU THE MOST AT THE LOWEST RATE
4½%
LOWER DOWN PAYMENT, TOO.

FACT: OTHER BANKS. You can get an auto loan from almost any bank. But you'll have a difficult time getting a lower interest rate or smaller down payment than at California Canadian Bank. Our interest rate is a low 4½% which equals an ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE of 8.41% (36 month term).

FACT: DOWN PAYMENT. If you can even find a bank that has a loan rate as low as ours, find out what size down payment they require: it may be as much as 40%. Generally we will only require a down payment of about 20%. A lower down payment gives you two advantages: (1) You have less initial cash outlay; and (2) You can purchase a better car.

FACT: DEALER FINANCING. The fact is, when you finance a car through an automobile dealer, the dealer himself usually makes a commission on your loan. The result is that you pay an unnecessarily high interest rate on your loan. The chart below gives you a pretty clear picture of how much extra you are likely to pay.

CHART OF NEW AUTO LOAN PAYMENTS
(Example: $4200 borrowed for 36 months*)

	California Canadian Bank	Typical Dealer Financing
Amount of New Car Loan	$4200.00	$4200.00
Annual Percentage Rate	8.41%	11.08%
No. of Monthly Payments	36	36
Amt. of Each Payment	$ 132.41	$ 137.66
Sum of Payments	$4767.00	$4956.00

You Save $189.00 at California Canadian Bank.

Panama To Push Canal Demands

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Panama said today it will carry its demands for control of the Canal Zone to the U.N. General Assembly despite an American veto that killed a similar resolution under consideration by the Security Council.

The veto Wednesday night was only the third by the United States since the founding of the world organization 27 years ago.

Ambassador John Scali cast the veto vote because, he said, the resolution was "unbalanced and incomplete and therefore subject to serious misinterpretation."

Thirteen other members of the Council, including China, the Soviet Union and France, voted for the resolution, which in effect would force the United States to sign a treaty with Panama that would end 70 years of American control of the waterway.

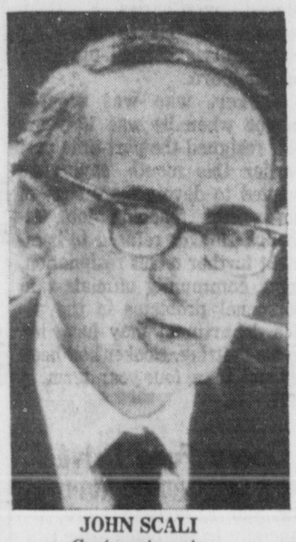
Britain, the other member of the Council, abstained.

Aquilino Boyd, the Panamanian ambassador to the United Nations and president of the Council session that ended here Wednesday, said his country would try for passage of a similar resolution at the larger General Assembly.

"Ambassador Scali," Boyd said, "has a skeleton in his closet and that skeleton is the Pentagon."

"The leaders of the United States have had an inferiority complex ever since Teddy Roosevelt," he added, referring to the American president in office when the United States won control 'in perpetuity" over the Canal Zone in 1903.

At a news conference held after the end of the Council session, the first held in Latin America, Scali refused to say whether he cast the veto after talking with President Nixon.



JOHN SCALI
Casts veto vote

He said intense efforts to reach agreement on a compromise resolution within the 15-member Council failed after coming "very close" to success.

"Just as I thought we were on the brink of agreement, the Panamanians, for reasons best known to themselves, reversed their field," he said. "I believe I did the right thing under the circumstances."

The only previous vetos cast by the United States came last year on a Middle East question and in 1968 on a Rhodesia resolution.

Scali said he did not expect any violence in the Canal Zone or against U.S. citizens or property because of the vote.

'Whirlwind' Of Prophet Spaceship?

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — According to Joseph F. Blumrich, when the prophet Ezekiel saw that "whirlwind out of the north" back in the 6th Century B.C., it was a spaceship.

Blumrich is chief of the systems layout branv of the program development office at the Marshall Space Flight Center. And he figures that "whirlwind" was a large rocket ship with four helicopter rotors descending from a mother ship in Earth orbit.

Blumrich said he has been analyzing the technical possibilities of Ezekiel's description in the Old Testament and "I came to the conclusion that the prophet indeed saw such a thing.

"My conclusion is that this was what we nowadays call a shuttle vehicle," said Blumrich, who has a book on the subject coming out soon in Germany. He said in a telephone interview that the ship Ezekiel saw "was dependent on an orbital station. Size and performance match the shuttle vehicle that goes from that orbital station to the ground and back.

"The thing is a very feasible vehicle and a very good design. There's good engineering behind the entire design," he said.

Blumrich says he believes the rocketship was shaped like a cone with concave sides, using atmospheric drag to decelerate through the atmosphere, then slowing its descent first with braking rockets and, finally, with four rotor blades for the final few thousand feet to the ground.

Affluent State

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The current population of 18,250,000 persons in New York State has a combined annual personal income of more than $92 billion, the state Department of Commerce reports.

Papers Are Said More Sensitive Than Secret

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The man who classified the Pentagon Papers "top secret" testified Wednesday in defense of the man who made them public.

The papers were ordered written to show how the United States got involved in Vietnam, but were classified "to keep them a secret from other Americans" as politically sensitive, testified Morton H. Halperin.

In 1967, Robert S. McNamara, then secretary of defense, wanted "an encyclopedic and objective" study on "where we were and how we got there in Vietnam," said Halperin.

Halperin, as deputy assistant secretary of defense for national security affairs, was in charge of picking the men who wrote and compiled the document and of overseeing their work, he told the jury in the Pentagon Papers trial Wednesday.

Halperin appeared as a witness for the defense in the trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo on espionage, theft and conspiracy charges.

His instructions from McNamara's office were that "the existence of the task force itself was to be kept a secret from other Americans," Halperin testified. Not even other government agencies were in on it, he said, calling the papers "a closely guarded secret within government."

The study was classified "top secret—sensitive," he said.

"Sensitive is a marking put on material in the office of the secretary of defense that is believed to be bureaucratically or politically sensitive," Halperin said.

A defense attorney asked whether the papers were classified "precisely for the purpose of concealing embarrassment and administrative error." U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne sustained an objection by the prosecution and Halperin could not reply.

When the decision was made to classify the papers, "I had not read either the documents themselves or the source documents," Halperin said. "We noted the fact that we were making use of top secret documents. It was my belief that we had to mark the study top secret as well."

Halperin testified that the copy of the papers taken by Ellsberg was outside the normal control system for secret documents—removed so that Halperin and other high ranking officials would have access to the papers after they had left their official positions in the Pentagon.

Foot Leads To Four Bodies

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — A passerby saw a foot protruding from a caved-in section of the Sunset Cliffs Wednesday. Workmen dug into the hillside and found four bodies.

It was believed the men may have been buried alive Feb. 4 when the section of oceanfront cliff in the city's Point Loma area collapsed.

The men, who remained unidentified, were described as in their early 20s. Deputy Coroner Max Murphy speculated they were sleeping in a cave when it collapsed.

Girl, 12, Would Wed Man Who Bought Her

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (UPI) — Authorities say a "very nice looking" 12-year-old girl is willing to marry the 37-year-old man who bought her for $30,000 from her parents in Illinois. But she also wants to go back to school.

The girl was picked up with Harold Miller of Oak Park, Ill., at a motel Tuesday. She is being held in a foster home pending the arrival of Illinois officials with legal orders for her return to that state.

Miller, a graduate art student and teacher's aide at the Circle Campus of the University of Illinois, was arrested on a charge of felonious conspiracy filed in Illinois and on a local charge of false registration at a motel.

Authorities said the parents of the girl, Fred and Rita Flynn of Bolingbrook, Ill., had been charged with conspiracy and child abandonment and released on $10,000 bond each.

Authorities in Illinois said the alleged purchase apparently developed out of a conversation between Miller and Flynn in the taxicab that Flynn drives for a living.

Bolingbrook Police Chief Ronald Johnson said he learned through the girl's father that "a deal was set up to receive a 12-year-old girl for the sum of $30,000."

Johnson said the Flynns were paid Saturday and went on a shopping spree, buying a new car and new furniture and paying off their debts, leaving them only $200 by Monday.

Johnson said Flynn had planned to fly to Charleston, S.C., this week to sign papers so his daughter could marry Miller.

The Flynn's other two children, a 13-year-old son and a 10-year-old girl, had been taken from the parents and are in "protective custody," according to authorities.

Asheville Police Chief J. C. Hall said his officers had been told to watch for Miller's car and spotted it at a motel.

He said the girl was wearing blue jeans and a sweater and "was a very nice looking girl ... a normal 12-year-old.

"She said they were to be married in South Carolina and had been traveling for about three nights," said Hall.

Asheville officer W. G. Kelly said the girl "wanted to marry the man, but she said she would like to return to Illinois and go back to school."

Needle Charge Plea Entered

A San Rafael youth yesterday entered an innocent plea to a misdemeanor count of illegal possession of a hypodermic needle.

Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith released David Darl Chapelle, 22, on his own recognizance, subject to posting $48 bail on an old traffic warrant. He is to appear Wednesday for a pretrial conference on the needle charge.

San Rafael police arrested Chapelle Monday night after being called to halt a disturbance at a downtown hotel and remembered there was a traffic warrant for him. Officers said they found five hypodermic needles and other narcotics-related paraphernalia in his pocket.

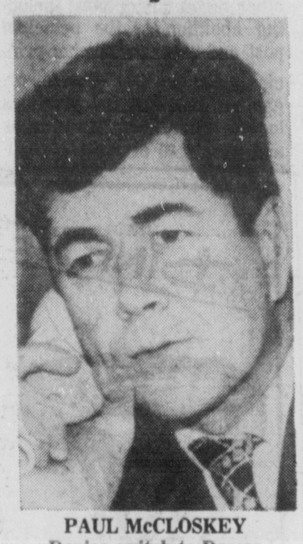
McCloskey Not Sure On Party



PAUL McCLOSKEY
Denies switch to Demos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Paul N. (Pete) McCloskey, who challenged President Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination last year, denies he has switched to the Democrats or become an independent.

"Technically, I'm still a Republican, but..." the former Marine officer said Wednesday.

McCloskey added the "but" qualification, he said, because he is unsure whether he will run as a Republican or a Democrat if he seeks reelection next year.

"Right now I don't know whether I will sign as a Republican or a Democrat or even whether I'll run again," McCloskey said.

There were reports out of California earlier Wednesday that McCloskey had become an independent or switched to the Democrats. He said the stories came from his action Monday filling out a switch of addresses in his home district's voter registration form. In the process, McCloskey left vacant a question as to his political party affiliation.

"There's some confusion on the part of the press as to what happened," McCloskey said. "I did not switch to Democrat as one account claimed and I did not become an independent as another said."

McCloskey said he has until December to claim party affiliation and state whether he will seek re-election in 1974.

However, California voting officials said that under state election laws McCloskey has cut his ties with the Republican party and cannot run under that designation unless he reregisters.

No. 2 Job Being Eyed By Veneman

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — John G. Veneman still hasn't made it official, but he conceded yesterday that "it's no secret" he would like to be the GOP nominee for lieutenant governor next year.

Veneman, 47, stopped short of an all-out declaration of candidacy in a news conference, noting that there are almost 15 months until the 1974 primary election.

But he commented that he feels his experience in both the federal and state levels would help him do a good job in the state's number two political post. He is a former California assemblyman, who served as undersecretary of health, education and welfare.

Veneman noted he is not "philosophically opposed" to running independently of the gubernatorial nominees.

Veneman also said that should Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke decide to run again for his current job, he would not oppose him. But Reinecke has indicated he may seek the governor's job.

In his talk, he discussed the concept of "the new federalism."

He said that "if state and local governments do not respond responsibly to revenue-sharing, I think it will be dead as a doornail by 1980.

As to a national health insurance program, Veneman said "the question no longer is whether or not we should have such a program, but how it would be administered."

But he voiced opposition to Sen. Edward Kennedy's plan by which the federal government would collect all the revenue for financing the program and would administer it. He said this approach "would wipe out the entire health insurance industry in this country."

Instead he advocated the Nixon Administration approach, where the employer provides a basic health package for his employees.

California Poll Shows Crime No. 1 Problem

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Poll reported today that Californians consider crime and the fear of crime as the number one community problem and what's more, they think that the problem is worsening.

Crime was listed as a major problem by 35 per cent of those questioned. No other issue was mentioned by even half that many persons.

In a survey 13 months ago by the poll, only 29 per cent listed crime as a pressing problem.

Other community problems mentioned frequently were tax and the need for tax reform (17 per cent), drug abuse (16 per cent), pollution and ecology (16 per cent), inflation and the cost of living (16 per cent), unemployment (15 per cent) and schools (12 per cent).

The survey found that blacks and those earning less than $5,000 annually rated crime especially high on their list of concerns.

Fifty-five per cent of the black community considered crime a major community problem and 43 per cent of those in the lowest income bracket agreed.

On the specific question as to whether crime is on the increase, 47 per cent said it was and 11 per cent said it was on the decrease. Another 21 per cent saw no change.

Although belief that there is more, rather than less, crime extends throughout the state, more of those in Los Angeles County (52 per cent) and those in Northern California outside the San Francisco Bay Area (56 per cent) noted an increasing crime rate than people in other areas of the state.

Circus Signs Pact With 'Small' Man

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey Circus announced Wednesday it has signed a contract with "the smallest man in the world" — a 33-inch-tall Hungarian.

Man Observes 107th Birthday

WEIMAR, Calif. (UPI) — When Thomas R. Dayton was 72, he came west from the Pennsylvania coal fields to die of "miner's tuberculosis."

That was in 1938.

He chopped wood to make ends meet for many years. "I was probably cutting wood on my 100th birthday," said Dayton, who said he was born in 1866 in San Francisco.

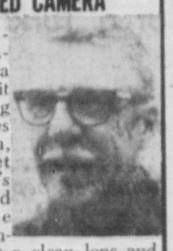
CALLING ALL CAMERA FANS
By Ken Reichard

THE WELL-DRESSED CAMERA



The well-dressed camera wears a case when it isn't being used. It lives in a clean, neat gadget bag when it's being moved from one place to another. It has a clean lens and wears a lens cap to keep it that way.

It has a good strong leather or metal strap to keep it from falling. It gets itself cleaned once a year, even if it has been good all year. It has the sense to keep its speeds about it, and get its shutter checked and timed annually.

The point of all this is that when your camera has a clean bill of health, it will never be to blame for any problems that come up. Another side benefit is that the re-sale value of the camera will stay high enough to enable you to afford that new lightmeter you thought you couldn't afford at all.

One of the best investments in the longevity of that camera is a good gadget bag. Some of the new ones have fitted compartments and even alarms built in to warn you against camera-nappers. There are foam-fitted aluminum cases for the ultimate in camera protection. Some cameras really have it made . . . and if yours isn't one of them, see us soon about that new gadget bag and other "health" accessories for your camera.

WATERFRONT BLAZE

Pier 7 on San Francisco's Embarcadero was completely destroyed in a spectacular five-alarm fire late yesterday. The fire that roared through the block-long wooden pier destroyed several business offices and as many as 60 automobiles. Fire department and port officials declined to estimate the monetary loss, although they admitted it is certain to be high. Some 200 firemen, 57 pieces of equipment, fire boats from San Francisco and Oakland, and four Coast Guard cutters controlled the spectacular blaze in about two hours.

Grand Jury Praises Teachers, Hits Program At Juvenile Hall

A Marin County Grand Jury committee yesterday praised teachers at juvenile hall, but found shortcomings with the overall educational program in the facility.

"Teachers are to be commended for their tenacity and energy," the grand jury's educational committee reported in the seventh interim statement issued by the 1972-73 panel.

But, the report noted, some juvenile hall inmates are not being allowed to attend classes at all.

"It is desirable for all youths to be kept in a learning environment, even if it is only for a short period each day," the report said.

Chairman Douglas K. McVae and the committee reported the county schools office actually operates two schools at the hall under the name of Loma Alta School. The two plants have one principal, who also is assigned other duties by the county schools office, the committee found. The school inside the fence is staffed by three teachers; the classrooms at the Child Treatment Center have four teachers.

Only the school inside the fence has a library. The committee suggested that youngsters from the other school be assigned use of the library at regular scheduled times.

The committee made eight other recommendations, including abolition of the principal post and separate teacher-principals for the two schools, organized teaching for juveniles locked up for security reasons and unable to attend the regular class, more administrative, technical and supplies assistance from the county schools office, and a faster system of obtaining students' outside school records for use by Loma Alta teachers.

Because teacher vacations "disrupt" juvenile hall schooling, the jury report suggested offering academic training three quarters a year, and concentrating on vocational and arts training on a remedial basis the fourth quarter.

Larkspur To Crack Down On Dogs

Larkspur city councilmen last night agreed the city should hire an animal control enforcement officer to rid the city of roving dog packs that have attacked at least two children.

Councilmen told City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst to look into hiring a Humane Society employee with the power to issue citations and to arrest citizens whose dogs violate public nuisance laws.

The proposed officer would be a full-time employee of the city, hired on a 90-day trial basis.

"He will be our own man who gets to know the community and the problem," said Mayor William G. Fleckles.

The get-tough proposal was prompted by citizen complaints and a petition signed by about 150 residents calling for an "effective and adequate program" to end the loose dog problem.

The council chamber was packed with residents who complained of wandering packs of vicious dogs, sighted mostly in the areas of Madrone Avenue, West Baltimore Avenue and Bridge Road, where two school children recently were attacked and bitten.

The petition was presented to the council by Sonja Severson, whose five-year-old daughter, Serina, was one of the children attacked.

"The dogs involved are not strays," she said. "They belong to people in the neighborhood."

She and John E. Lessin, a veterinarian whose son also was bitten, indicated that a few people who encourage dogs to gather in packs by offering them "food and love" are responsible for the attacks.

"We do have irresponsible members of the community," said Councilman Robert H. Lee. "We must use every method we can to control the problem."

The council is expected to approve hiring an animal control officer at its April 4 meeting. If it does, Larkspur will become the first Marin County city to do so.

Bathurst estimated the cost of such an officer for the 90-day period at $2,500.

Fleckles, admonishing the council to take action on the issue quickly, said that despite the cost, something must be done to prevent further attacks.

"We may be short of money, but you can't buy a child's eyes," he said.

The Larkspur City Council Also:

TAX SHARING — Heard a proposal from the Larkspur Town Meeting group urging Larkspur to investigate a tax sharing plan and regional planning effort with Corte Madera because proposed developments in both cities "are regional in nature" and "only through tax sharing will it be possible for the citizens of both towns to benefit from future development." The council instructed Bathurst to write a letter to the Corte Madera City Council urging it to form a committee to work with a similar committee from Larkspur to study the proposal, and instructed the city attorney to investigate legality of a tax sharing plan.

MORATORIUM — Extended an existing moratorium on development of San Quentin Peninsula property east of Highway 101 for an additional 240 days.

AIRPLANES — Read a letter from a citizen complaining about noise generated by model airplane flying at Piper Park. Councilman Alfred J. Malvino volunteered to study the feasibility of requiring mufflers to be put on planes and will give report at next council meeting.

LIBRARY — Accepted a letter from the library board urging utilization of the city redevelopment agency to provide an adequate building and site for the Larkspur Public Library.

NOISE — Accepted a plan by Alpha Beta Markets to limit deliveries to its Larkspur store to hours between 6 a.m. and 10 p.m. as a result of a cease and desist order from the city after citizen complaints of excessive early morning noise caused by unloading trucks.

HUMAN RIGHTS — Appointed Mary Jane Dunstan, College of Marin professor, as the city's liaison with the County Human Rights Commission.

TAX — Adopted a report from the tax equity committee and instructed Malvino, the city representative to the committee, to support it at the next meeting of mayors and councilmen.

APPOINTMENTS — Approved the council's appointments to the design review board.

TREES — Proposed including funds in this year's budget for a tree-planting program along Magnolia Avenue after the proposal was tabled for an undetermined period by the chamber of commerce.

REDEVELOPMENT — Met as the Larkspur Redevelopment Agency in closed session before the regular council meeting to interview financial consultants for its proposed redevelopment project and met in closed session after the meeting to select one of three companies interviewed. Adopted the redevelopment agency bylaws for its meetings in public session.

Judge Orders Novato To Rescind Personnel Policy

Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson yesterday ordered the Novato City Council to rescind the city personnel and reclassification ordinance it adopted last month, or appear in court April 3 to argue why it should not do so.

The alternative writ resulted from a suit filed by the Novato City Employees Association which claimed that the council violated state employee relations laws and its own adopted policies by failing to meet and confer with city employees on the new classification and personnel table.

The employee group said it is the legally recognized representative of the city workers, but that the council had refused to heed meet-and-confer requests to hear the employees' proposals since last July. The council adopted the new reclassification plan and salaries Feb. 12 knowing that it was opposed by the association, the complaint said.

U.S. Bank Will Make Russ Loan

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chase Manhattan Bank announced Wednesday it is making the first direct major loan by a U.S. commercial bank to the Soviet Union in more than half a century.

Chase Manhattan granted the Bank for Foreign Trade of the U.S.S.R. an $86 million credit to help finance building of the Kama River truck plant foundry. The loan parallels a loan of the same amount by the government-sponsored U.S. Export-Import Bank.

The interest rate and terms were not disclosed and the bank said they would not be revealed.

Bill Legalizes Acupuncture

GUAM (UPI) — Gov. Carlos G. Camacho signed a law today that legalizes the practice of acupuncture.

The law created a board of examiners to license practicioneers of the ancient oriental medical art and establish penalties for individuals who practice it without a license.

Doctors on the island generally welcomed the law. Dr. John Garrett, who helped write the law, said he received only one negative vote in the legislature.

KENNEDY QUITS POST

Joseph Kennedy III, sitting in his pickup and going over notes on his work in the Mission District of San Francisco, has ended his brief career as a social worker in the city. Kennedy, 20, son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, quit his $8,840 a year post after four weeks. Though Kennedy's hiring was criticized in some circles, his boss, Health Director Francis J. Curry, praised young Kennedy's work, saying "I think there will be some definite plusses that will come out of this." (UPI Telephoto)

Storm Hits Southern California

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Pacific storm with powerful March winds and drenching rains swept through Southern California Wednesday.

The storm arrived a day ahead of its predicted schedule, sending .5 inches of rain and winds of 40 miles-an-hour to the coastal and desert areas.

Palm fronds were tossed through the streets by the gusty winds. Signs were downed and power lines severed. Roofs blew off six duplexes under construction in San Bernardino.

Rare spring snow in desert areas caused hazardous driving conditions. Olga Rivera, 31, La Crescenta, was killed when the car in which she was a passenger skidded in Antelope Valley and crashed 80 feet into a canyon.

The pilot of a plane flying from Las Vegas was killed when his craft crashed in the rain storm short of the Fullerton Airport runway.

Valuable Commodity

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Burglars stole an increasingly valuable commodity, $2,950 worth of meat, from the Red Fox Steak House before daylight Wednesday, police reported.

Housing Authority Sets Special Round

A special meeting of the Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in the planning commission chambers at Marin Civic Center.

Commissioners will discuss security measures in Marin City and how to protect authority employees. The meeting was called in the wake of an attack last week on the manager of Marin City's public housing project.

Leary's Lawyer Tells Of Threats Of Death

SAN LUIS OBISPO (UPI) — When Timothy Leary, the LSD "turn on" proponent, escaped from prison he was a victim of "involuntary intoxication" and had been threatened with death, Leary's lawyer said Wednesday.

"We will prove threats and menaces" against Leary, said Bruce Margolin in his opening statement to the jury in Leary's trial for escaping from the California Men's Colony near here in 1970.

Leary was "under threat of death and marked for assassination," he said.

As an instructor at Harvard, the lawyer said, Leary "had a desire to cure the mental ills of the world and wanted to open up a whole new area of the mind.

"But a lot of nuts out there said he was responsible for the drug problems and he was imprisoned by reactionaries for a minute quantity of marijuana.

The prosecution rested its case after testimony by Terry Burke, the federal narcotics agent who sighted Leary in Afghanistan and accompanied him back to the United States.

Superior Court Judge Richard Harris first heard Burke's testimony with the jury absent, to consider a defense challenge that it be declared inadmissable. The defense argued that Leary had not been warned of his civil rights, including the right to remain silent, before confessing to Burke on the plane to the United States how he escaped.

The prosecution argued that Leary was not under formal arrest at the time, and so there was no such obligation.

The judge ruled Wednesday that Leary's statements were made voluntarily "and not through interrogation" and were therefore admissable.

Burke then told the jury that Leary had explained to him that he fled the prison by working his way along a power cable that passed over the camp and led to a utility pole outside the fence.

Soviet Writer Wins Divorce

MOSCOW (UPI) — Sources close to Nobel Prize-winning novelist Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn said Wednesday he has won a 16-month legal battle to divorce his first wife.

They said the divorce was approved last Thursday by a court in Ryazan, where the couple used to live, after the author's wife, Natalya Reshetovskaya, withdrew her objections to it.

Safeway Denies Meat Rap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Safeway Stores, one of the country's largest supermarket chains, has denied charges by two consumer-oriented congressmen that it cheats customers by deliberately mislabeling beef cuts.

Reps. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., and Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., told a capitol hill news conference Wednesday that Safeway substitutes cheaper cuts of beef for more expensive items and charges the higher price.

In Oakland, Calif., Calvin Pond, vice-president of public relations for Safeway, said: "We feel that we have the finest meat program in the country and we welcome any scrutiny by consumer or government agencies at any time." He added that the charges were "absolutely not true."

At the news conference, Waldie held aloft a "beef club steak" which he said was purchased at a San Diego safeway for $1.88 a pound. He said it actually was a rib steak like others selling in the same store for $1.39 a pound.

"Safeway stores across the nation are substituting cheaper cuts of meat for more expensive cuts at premium prices," he said.

The congressmen said they based their charges on a three-month survey conducted by the Interfaith Committee for Aid Farm workers at 121 Safeway stores across the nation.

Sanitary District Gets Sewer Relocation Funds

The San Rafael Sanpation District has received $115,613 in state reimbursement funds for sewer facility relocation required by roadway construction along Highway 101 near Francisco Boulevard, the district board learned last night.

Some $53,613 of the money is the last payment of a $281,613 reimbursement agreement under which the state paid the district the cost of relocating sanitary facilities displaced by highway improvement, according to district secretary Virginia H. Congdon.

The remainder of the money is compensation for an old pumping station and equipment on the old corporation yard, sold to the state in connection with freeway construction, she said.

The board last night approved a $15,750 contract with Industrial Tank, Inc., low bidder, for cleaning of a sewage digester at the main sewer plant on Irene Street.

The board also approved installation of a septic tank at 22 Brushwood Lane, she said.

Breathalizer Test Turns Out A Surprise

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — During a break in debate on a drunken driving bill, the Vermont Senate Judiciary Committee Wednesday invited lawmakers to see how a breathtesting machine works. The committee got a bit of a surprise.

Chitten County State's Attorney Patrick Leahy, a teetotaler, agreed to take a breath test to demonstrate the equipment. When the results of the breathalizer test came up, the needle indicated there was alcohol on the prosecutor's breath.

A shocked State Ser. T. Garry Buckley said, "Either I'm drunk or that needle moved."

Officials running the test quickly pointed out the machine showed a 0.0025 per cent reading on Leahy's test and there is a 0.005 per cent element of error in the machine's readings.

New Tahoe Link Is Nearly Ready

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A six-mile freeway stretch of U.S. 50 will be opened east of here this weekend, eliminating the last urban bottleneck for traffic between San Francisco and South Lake Tahoe, the state Division of Highways says.

The new $10 million roadway will allow motorists to bypass the traffic lights and congestion near Rancho Cordova, and should trim about 20 minutes' driving time from the trip, a department spokesman said Wednesday.

Still remaining, however, is the twisting, 50-mile segment of two-lane rural highway between Riverton and the lake.

Man Convicted On Two Counts

A Marin Superior Court Jury has convicted a 22-year-old San Francisco man of stealing a Novato woman's purse and a Santa Rosa car dealer's auto.

Eddie Wheatley Jr. yesterday was found guilty of second-degree robbery and auto theft after a two-day jury trial before visiting Judge Nat A. Agliano of Monterey County.

Wheatley will be sentenced April 12, the judge ordered.

Novato police arrested Wheatley last Nov. 30, minutes after a man threw 48-year-old Rita P. Steppler to the ground on Grant Avenue and grabbed her purse containing $11. Officers said they then discovered that the car Wheatley was driving had been stolen earlier the same day.

Bail Cut For Sirhan's Kin

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sharif B. Sirhan, older brother of convicted assassin Sirhan B. Sirhan, was granted lower bail Wednesday despite protests by the Justice Department that he made a violent threat against Israeli Premier Golda Meir.

The elder Sirhan, 39, was arrested by the FBI Monday on charges he sent a letter to Secretary of State William P. Rogers "containing a threat to injure the person of Golda Meir."

U.S. Magistrate Venetta S. Tassopoulos Wednesday lowered Sirhan's bail from $50,000 to $25,000.

Roth Eyes Governor's Race In '74

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — William Matson Roth, 56, a San Francisco business executive and resident of Ross, today said he is considering running for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1974.

Roth, a University of California regent, gave notice of his potential candidacy in a telegram sent to newspaper publishers and Democratic Party leaders.

"Having often catered a wedding but never been the groom, I now seriously intend to canvass the state on the possibility of running for governor on the Democratic ticket," Roth said in the telegram.

Drunken Driving Charge Denied

A 53-year-old San Francisco woman injured in a Sausalito traffic accident March 13, yesterday entered innocent pleas in absentia to misdemeanor charges of drunken driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Lillian Lucille Johnson is still under care in the coronary care unit of Marin General Hospital, her attorney told Judge Peter Allen Smith in Marin Municipal Court. Judge Smith set a pretrial hearing for April 11.

Sausalito police said Mrs. Johnson's car struck two parked cars on Bridgeway but she continued driving until stopped by police.

Grand Jury Indicts Five Prison Inmates

The Marin County Grand Jury yesterday indicted five San Quentin Prison inmates on a variety of felony charges. All will be arraigned in superior court tomorrow before presiding Judge David Menary.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said the jury voted indictments against:

Jimmy E. Speights, 27, and Arthur C. Cacera, 23, for possession of narcotics injection paraphernalia. They were caught together in the prison gymnasium on Feb. 10, Bales said.

Phillip V. Kirk, 28, for escaping Feb. 13 from the prison ranch outside the walls. He was recaptured five days later.

Terrance L. Goins, 22, and Daniel J. Cavanaugh, 25, for possession of prison-made knives which they are said to have had. They were caught after a fight Jan. 13 in the prison's lower yard, when up to four inmates attacked another inmate Daniel Harris, stabbing him in the left arm and back. Harris recovered.

Lee DeBord, prison information officer, said Speights was sentenced Jan. 19, 1970, from San Francisco for forging prescriptions to serve six months to 14 years.

Cacera was sentenced in 1971 from San Francisco and San Mateo counties, serving six months to 15 years for burglary and auto theft.

Kirk was sentenced in 1968 from Shasta County and was serving six months to 10 years for assault and parole violation.

Goins was sentenced last year from San Francisco and San Mateo counties, to terms ranging from six months to life for robbery with a firearm and other robbery counts.

Cavanaugh was sentenced in 1970 from Los Angeles County for six months to 15 years for grand theft and burglary.

Bales explained today that San Quentin crimes routinely are referred to the grand jury if his office finds there is enough evidence to prosecute, although it has been about 15 months since any indictments were sought.

Students Build Swallow Homes

Junior high school students from Casa Grande Junior and Senior High School in Petaluma and mentally retarded youngsters from Magnolia Park School in San Rafael will install nesting shelves for the migratory birds, displaced when the park service tore down a barn in which they nested in the Laguna Ranch portion of the park.

The students built the simulated eaves of recycled wood and will place them on top of 12-foot posts.

The project is sponsored by the park's Environmental Education Association, made up of local school administrators, teachers, the Golden Gate Audubon Society and National Park Service.

South Vietnam Reds Said Weak

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist forces in the 11-province region surrounding Saigon are "down to their last reserves" and incapable of launching any major campaign when the monsoon rains begin next month, high-ranking South Vietnamese military sources said today.

The sources said that while the Communists were still infiltrating troops and supplies into the area—known as Military Region III—"they are not strong enough" to take military advantage of the rainy season.

All five major highways in the region around Saigon are clear, the sources said. The only area under Communist control is a thickly jungled piece of territory north of Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon. Viet Cong military headquarters is situated in the same area.

Supervisors Will Address Tax Group

County Supervisors Arnold Baptiste and Robert A. Roumiguiere will speak at the first 1973 membership meeting of the Marin County Taxpayers Association at 8 p.m. today in the planning commission chamber at the Civic Center.

Election of six new directors also is scheduled at the meeting. As only six candidates are in the field, their election appears assured. They are Walter S. Filler, Daniel A. Gamer, John P. Pipgrass and Theresa M. Schaefer of San Rafael, Milton F. Olson of Kentfield, and John C. Rolston of Tiburon.

Cotati Council Sets Meeting On Personnel

The Cotati City Council will meet in special session at 4 p.m. tomorrow at city hall to consider three personnel matters.

City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen said the council will consider the request of Police Chief Thomas Gray to fire a police officer. Under new council policies, all employees must be hired and fired by the council.

The council will also review applications for the position of city engineer-public works director and indicate which candidates will be interviewed. Salfen said the council will also consider the appointment of Lee Gray, the police chief's wife, as chairman of the parks and recreation commission.

Hub School Hopefuls View Responsibilities

Candidates for the three vacancies on the San Anselmo School board agreed last night that the district, in order to meet the educational needs of social change, must be responsive to viewpoints within the community.

The six candidates were divided, however, on the question of the possible combination of the two junior high schools in San Anselmo.

The six hopefuls for the April 17 election — Judith L. Vallas, Charles H. Daiber, Roberta S. Michels, Oliver L. Harle, Millard R. Morgan and Garth Stanton — gave their views during a candidates night sponsored by parent clubs of Sleepy Hollow, Hidden Valley and Brookside schools at Brookside.

Stanton, of 110 Meadowcroft Drive, said the board must be accountable for its actions.

"I believe in a strong board taking active leadership and making strong decisions," said the 39-year-old chemist. "We're in a period of social change. A child has to have good sound education and be taught about the world he's living in and, perhaps more importantly, the world he will be living in in the future."

Educators must set goals, he continued, and these goals go all the way to the board. "The board's actions must reflect the community's wishes," he said.

Harle, 51, also a chemist, said public education is based on responsibility to the individual child.

"I think the schools owe it to the child to give a good basis of spoken and written English, math and an understanding of the society and community he lives in," he said.

Harle, of 21 Echo Court, also said the board should avoid decisions during crisis situations and suggested appointing a planning commission of parents, teachers and students to inventory facilities and plans including giving suggestions on the directions they would like to see the board go in.

Improving communication and the further implementation of the volunteer program were concerns of Mrs. Michels, 33, of 149 Calumet Avenue.

Mrs. Michels, a dental hygienist, said board members should spend more time in the schools and the community. "I feel there is a lack of input from the general community to the board," she said. "Trustees should do more than go to board meetings. She said the board could arrange to send memos home with the children informing parents about important matters to be discussed by the board.

The only incumbent seeking reelection, Millard R. Morgan, 49, of 39 Hawthorne Avenue, said the district should be responsive to various viewpoints.

The board, he said, should seek out and utilize the talents of the staff and communicate in exciting and different ways. He also said the board should seek out weaknesses in the system and staff where they exist. If it is a member of the faculty, he said, this would not necessarily mean firing, but helping by bringing in all the available talents to strengthen him.

Morgan, a history professor at the College of Marin, said the schools should be concerned with mental health as well as scholastic achievement and placed mental health as a first priority saying without it there can be no achievement.

Mrs. Vallas, 33, of 260 Brookside Drive and a member of the district advisory committee on special education, said the board needs to establish a set of goals and a plan to keep within the district's philosophy.

This philosophy, she said, includes being responsive to the child's needs, giving him a positive attitude toward himself and others and creating an awareness of the community around him.

As needs arise and the budget permits, she said, the board should explore the possibilities of new programs. She also said the board should be objective and willing to make themselves available to the community.

She also called for a plan of direction that would constantly look at facilities and programs, and if community supported, make plans on how to maintain them.

Daiber of 70 Ridge Road, said he was basically in accord with the virtues of reading, writing and arithmetic. "It is important for later life," said the 60-year-old salesman. "I am not in favor of laxity of discipline in schools but I do believe there should be a latitude for social changes as they occur and they should be recognized."

He also added that permissiveness within the school is detrimental to the students.

The question of combining Red Hill and Hidden Valley junior high schools met with divided response. Mrs. Valles, who maintained that Red Hill, with an enrollment of 250 (compared to 180 at Hidden Valley), has a more complete and varied elective program and the two curriculums are not really equal. She suggested combining sixth, seventh and eighth grades if it were impossible to get community support for just one junior high.

Stanton, who said the change would depend on enrollment, agreed with the combination of the three grades. He also said there would be a transporation problem if the students in the Sleepy Hollow area had to be bused to Red Hill.

Morgan said there is room for the two schools. "I don't think it is more economical but it is not all that more expensive," he said, adding that they don't have to be equal in enrollment. Haile said, as things are now, it would be unwise to combine because of the considerable investment already in them.

Michels and Daiber both agreed that the question is one that needs more study and expert advice before any action can be taken.

Two Youths Face Burglary Hearing

Two Marin City youths will face preliminary hearings March 29 in Marin Municipal Court on charges of burglary, Judge Peter Allen Smith ordered yesterday.

Calvin Andrew Eskue, 19, and James Edward Morgan, 18, were arrested March 9 after sheriff's deputies were summoned by a babysitter who found a burglary taking place in a Homestead Valley home.

San Anselmo's Potential Open Space Areas Shown

Areas under study for possible purchase if the $500,000 open space bond issue is passed in the April 17 San Anselmo election were viewed last night by about 60 people at Brookside Elementary School.

Paul E. Selinger, a member of the open space committee established by the city council to study potential land for open space, showed slides of the areas which included Red Hill, Rosenthal Tract, the summit and scenic areas, Indian Rock, Hawthorne Hills and canyon, the Aldernay-Oakland area and the property adjacent to Sorich Park.

Selinger, who said San Anselmo has one of the highest population densities in Marin, said the average annual payment on the bond would be $37,275. Tax rates on assessed evaluation would range from $8.25 per year for $30,000 to $13.75 for $50,000.

Payment of the bond, he said, would be spread over the next 25 years with an average interest rate of not more than 7 per cent.

"There's not much land left," said Selinger, adding that the area behind Red Hill shopping center is already being threatened by "creeping San Rafael." "The only way to stop development and keep a green belt between the two cities is to purchase open space," he said.

Priorities of purchase for the areas established by the city council will depend on the recommendations of the Citizens Advisory Committee on the General Plan, the results of public hearings, the outcome of negotiations with property owners and the quantity and quality of land available with the funds.

Selinger said he hopes that land can be purchased within the city as well as the creek which could possibly be set aside as a picnic grove.

Open space, he said, would provide preservation of natural resources, outdoor recreation and keep small open space areas within the neighborhoods.

Lee Long Takes Handicap In Stride

By PAT BALMES

When Lee Long learned she was afflicted with multiple sclerosis last October, the 25-year-old wife and mother was determined that the crippling disease would change her life as little as possible.

Now, alternating between wheel chair and leg brace, Mrs. Long fights to keep active in her roles as mother of Katie, 6, and Alice, 3; as wife of a seminarian, and as a director of plays.

"It is important for handicapped people not to feel that their world is coming to an end and not to confine themselves. I am going to do as much as before," she said at her campus apartment at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Strawberry.

Her husband, Claude Long, has been studying Japanese for two years, planning to become a missionary in the isolated far islands of Japan.

"THAT THREW me for a loop," said Mrs. Long of her realization that her illness may thwart her husband's plan. If the mission board will not send them overseas, Reverend Long will be a missionary here, she said.

A strong religious faith is necessary to sustain her, Mrs. Long said and explained her way of reaching people.

"Marin County has only 1 per cent church-goers. That is why I thought theater was the way to reach these culture vultures. You cannot expect a community like Marin to come to 'Everyman.' You have to be more subtle and send them home with something to think about," she said.

Mrs. Long, whose major interest since school days has been drama, volunteered to direct two plays for Tiburon Baptist Church last year, a traditional interpretation of the Last Supper and a bare-stage comedy, "Case Against Eve."

Three hundred people attended the comedy's two performances. Mrs. Long was asked to stage it again in two other locations, but she became ill and was hospitalized. The cast and crew crumbled without her, she said.

During part of her two months at Marin General Hospital, Lee Long's roommate was actress Carol Vencius, a Hodgkin's disease patient.

"Carol is fantastic and funny. We were good for each other. She knows she must keep going," said Mrs. Long.

CAROL VENCIUS, 30, of San Rafael is a widow with a young son. A veteran actress with "The Wing," an improvisational group, she is appearing at the Intersection Theater in San Francisco.

Diagnosed in 1969, Carol went to Leeds Theater Festival in England with "The Wing" in July 1971. She will be touring the Northwest with them in April.

"When her condition is good she goes on tour, in between she is in the hospital," said Mrs. Long who plans to attend "The Wing's" Saturday open workshops with Mrs. Vencius.

Lee Long hopes she will continue to have the energy to be a director because a handicapped person "should try to stick to things you have already been able to do well," she said.

Tiburon Baptist Church has invited her to direct a third play, "Out of the Darkness." To involve the entire community she is holding open casting. Performances will be Holy Thursday and Good Friday, April 19 and 20.

This time the director is delegating authority and training an assistant because a virus might send a MS patient to the hospital, she explained.

Twice a week she attends a drama class at College of Marin to learn backstage — how to construct scenery and move props. A director should know how everything goes together, she said.

"They gave me some boy's jobs because they knew I could do them. I can sit in one place and cut wood at a band saw. Or I can sit on the floor with a hammer and a pot of nails and crawl around," she said.

WHEN HER class performs "Fiddler on the Roof" March 30 through April 15, Mrs. Long, supported by a leg brace, will help turn scenery by pulling on a counter weight.

Her crew activities follow therapy sessions at Center Medical and Rehabilitation Hospital in Kentfield, where she had worked for two months to be independent on crutches "with nobody holding onto my belt." Continued activity has aided her physical progress, she believes.

When Mrs. Long first saw retarded people at Center, she became depressed until she understood that they were each working on their own self-worth problems.

"Feeling they are worth something is what is going to make a handicapped person want to fight."

She has taken her daughters with her to therapy so they will see handicapped people, not be afraid and will learn what it is to be physically or mentally handicapped, she said.

Reverend Long preaches at an old peoples' convalescent home and their daughters love to go along, Mrs. Long said.

As the girls played around her wheelchair at home, Mrs. Long said they are just now recovering from being separated from her for two months.

KATIE, SOMETIMES naughty at school, seemed to have been saying to her teacher, "Don't be too rough on me; I have had a terrible time," said Mrs. Long.

Alice would hide behind furniture where she thought her mother in a wheelchair could not reach her. By slowly moving furniture Mrs. Long got to Alice, she said.

"They need consistency; you have to keep up the same ritual to make them feel secure," said Mrs. Long of the children.

She can do some of the housework like making beds and a neighbor paid by California Social Welfare Department does the rest and drives Mrs. Long to therapy twice a week.

Eighty per cent of MS patients' marriages end in divorce because of failure to learn to deal with the problem, perhaps because of lack of counseling and good discussions, she said.

Wary of developing a demanding personality, Mrs. Long said it would be easy to settle down and say, "This terrible thing has happened to me so wait on me, folks."

She mentioned that the vice president of a large computer organization has MS.

"Did you know there is a ski club for amputees?" said Mrs. Long, who until last year skied at Lake Tahoe.

For a handicapped person it is hard to get out and feel useful. It would be terrible if, when he found the strength, he had to stay home because he could not get a ride. It is up to other people to help the handicapped get out, she said.

IF YOU DON'T explain to your former friends that you want to be treated just like you were before, not pitied or censored, in time they will vanish, she said.

"In the hospital when I first realized that one leg is getting smaller, that really bugged me. I am not going to want to go out and be stared at, I thought," Mrs. Long said.

Now she understands that people may stare because they are afraid they would not be able to handle a handicap, she said.

"When I first went out in a wheelchair a little boy ran up and asked, 'How come you're in there, Lady?' I gave him a quick smile to put him at ease and an answer for his age," she said adding that the next time he won't be afraid of someone in a wheelchair.

People don't realize how strong a handicapped person can be. He has learned to deal with the handicap or he would not be out in public. The last thing he needs is pity because he has learned to deal with his problem, said Mrs. Long.

Nutrition Experts Discuss Food Costs

By BETTY FROST

The impact of a consumer boycott on meat was discussed by three nutrition experts yesterday during a panel discussion of food sponsored by the Tamalpais High School Consumer Resource Center.

Frances Dahl, Marin County nutritionist, foresees no harm to health provided other proteins are substituted for meat.

"Protein is protein," she said. "Legumes are a good source of protein, but people need to know how to use them. Fish, cheese and eggs are also good sources of protein."

Karen Berke, consumer specialist for the regional office for the 11 western states of the United States Department of Agriculture, said "food prices are not just a matter of your kitchen and your grocery store. There is a whole chain in the food industry running from the farmer to the wholesaler through marketing processors to the retailer. Farm prices and wholesale prices run parallel, but the retail price is governed by consumer demand.

"The market is always fluctuating, with certain seasonal demands, such as turkey at Thanksgiving and eggs at Easter having an influence. There are peak periods for meat, too, which is scarcer in the spring and the fall. Meat consumption slacks off every spring as people are concerned with economies because of taxes and Lenten observances."

The third panelist, Norma Warner, consumer specialist for the United States Food and Drug Administration in San Francisco which serves California, Nevada and U.S. trust territories in the Pacific. She explained that her agency's function is regulatory and concerned with determining the safety of processed foods, drugs and cosmetics.

"New regulations for nutritional labeling calling for uniform labels on processed foods indicating calorie, protein, carbohydrate, fat, vitamin, and mineral content, will be mandatory by Dec. 31, 1974," she said.

As for the consumer boycott on meat this spring, Miss Warner predicts, "The American Public will not boycott over a long period."

"I have had more calls from Marin families inquiring about what to feed a family instead of high priced meat in the past two months than ever before," Mrs. Dahl told the group of 50 students, teachers and members of the community who attended the panel discussion. Mrs. Marcelett Henry, chairman of the school's home economics department, moderated.

"We have to remember that incomes keep going up as well as food prices," Miss Berke said. "We are now devoting about 16 per cent of income to purchase of food on a national average. In 1960, 21 per cent of the average income went for food, and in 1950 it was 24 per cent. In England and France, 30 per cent of the income is spent for food.

"A side effect of present food prices is that people are becoming more conscious of nutrition. One way to cut the bills is get away from prepared 'convenience' products."

Government agencies can only enforce existing laws, Miss Warner emphasized. Consumers with complaints should write to their congressman or contact the proper government agency."

"If you have had bad or injurious results from a product, be sure to keep the product so that it can be inspected and tested," Mrs. Dahl said.

"We invited consumer's comments," said Miss Berke, whose agency is concerned with standards of quality, including the mandatory inspection of meat and poultry and the voluntary grading of fresh produce and processed fruits and vegetables.

The USDA consumer specialist spoke of a recent well-publicized issue which elicited only 50 responses from over the nation — a proposal on regulating hot dogs. Opinions from the public are invited and the agency would like to have a larger response, she said.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Joey's Date Got A Spanking And Now Won't Talk To Him

RAP:

Remember me? I'm your Pal Joey who wrote about his sister blackmailing him.

Well, I got another problem. Please help, and I promise to tell you how it works out. Okay?

Now that I'm older, I finally aksed the best looking chick in class for a date to go bowling and she accepted.

We had a good time and all that and then went for a soda.

She said she had to be home by 9:30 p.m. Well, I brought her home at 9:15 and she didn't want me to walk her to her door. But I did anyway and when she opened the door, her parents came rushing out. Her father grabbed her, turned her over his knee, picked up her skirt and gave her a good spanking.

I was never so embarrassed in my life. It seems she had to be home by 8:30 and she lied to me.

Well, when I met her in the school hall and tried to talk to her about the spanking, she slapped me and said she never wants to go out with me again.

Rap, was I wrong in walking her to the door? After all, it's her own fault she got spanked and I told her so. Don't ya think her father was wrong spanking her in front of me?

PAL JOEY:

The darndest things happen to you!

No, you weren't wrong in walking your girlfriend to the door, but she's got to blame somebody for her embarrassment, so you're "it."

Yes, her father was wrong to spank her in front of company —especially a date. But maybe this was one of those "last straw" things —and he now regrets losing control.

How do you get another date? Take it, Sue. — HELEN

JOEY:

We-e-ell. . .You won't get that date by telling a girl she deserved a spanking. After all, she lied so that she could be with you a little longer.

Play it friendly and cool, and don't bring up the last date or the slap. If she likes you, she'll soon forget them too. — SUE

DEAR RAP:

I am 14 and live with my Mom, two brothers, a mouse, a turtle, two dogs and the cat.

Recently we had the dogs clipped, so we let them stay in overnight. Well, that did it. Ever since, they have stayed in every night and like it that way.

It doesn't bother us, but my cat, Alvin, is throwing fits. He has to stay in my bedroom with the door closed and he darn near climbs the walls.

Please tell me what to do with two dogs and a jealous cat. — TONI

DEAR TONI:

This is a switch: a girl with two brothers who only worries about her pets!

If your cat Alvin doesn't appreciate the safety of your bedroom then he'll just have to take his lumps. After all, cats and dogs in the same house learn to live peaceably after a few minor skirmishes. — HELEN

DEAR TONI:

Be glad the turtle and mouse don't mix it up. I think they should be the ones to stay closed up in your bedroom.

Good luck in the animal kingdom. It's kinda nice to get a letter like yours for a change. — SUE

Lumber Use

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The average American family uses the equivalent of two Douglas fir trees 20 inches in diameter and 150 feet high each year for lumber, plywood, pulp and paper products, according to Dr. John Zivnuska, dean of the University of California School of Forestry and Conservation.

Reading No Longer Seen As Province Of Schools

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Margaret Mead recently startled 1,500 lunch companions during the annual meeting of the National Association of Independent Schools. She suggested that reading might best be taught at home.

She argued that the present system of a partially trained teacher working with 30 illiterate pupils results in failure of a significant number of pupils to learn to read. Since her audience knew that several children in each first grade class do, indeed, not learn to read, she drew an appreciative response. But her suggestion that children learn to read at home as they learn now to walk and talk met clenched-teeth silence.

What about this startling idea?

Dr. Mead was serious. She did not make the suggestion in jest. Also, she claimed there would not be any more failures in learning to read by shifting the responsibility to the home than there now are when the burden falls on the schools.

Schools used to claim that only they could teach reading. They often sent word home that parents were not to give the children any help or instruction in beginning reading.

BUT THAT is a thing of the past. The popular United States television program, "Sesame Street," put such a notion quite out of business. Although this TV show does not carry direct instruction in beginning ready, it does a great deal of what is called "reading readiness."

What if we were to call for more TV programs with instruction in reading, make reading workbooks and textbooks available, offer adult education courses in how to teach reading, and drop the teaching of reading from the school curriculum?

It's certainly worth a try.

Better educated neighbors might find ways to help those few parents in each community who do not, themselves, know how to read. Perhaps the American Association of University Women and similar organizations could hold classes in reading readiness and beginning reading instruction for the children of illiterate parents.

Public television could do its part by offering literacy lessons for adults and reading lessons for small children. Direct instruction in phonics, spelling, vocabulary, word recognition, paragraph meaning, speed reading, and comprehension could be offered at suitable hours for viewing and studying.

THE SAVING in money for any community could be significant. With virtually every child receiving individual tutoring instead of class teaching, there would be almost no need for schools to staff more than one or two reading teachers.

Instead, the schools could concentrate on subjects, such as the new math, that are not easily taught at home. Placement of children in multi-age groups would be the norm rather than the exception.

Schools could foster the play writing and acting, debating and other group experiences that that single families cannot easily provide. Children would go to school for intellectual refreshment. They would use their home-taught reading skills to complete research assignments and to be stimulated by a community of scholars.

Perhaps Dr. Mead has found a workable solution to a failure of the schools — a solution that would cost less, not more, public money.

Wouldn't it be grand if several towns and cities were to try it out?

Toy Libraries Offer Parents Place To Better Know A Child

By ROBERT STRAND

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Make way for toy libraries that teach middle class parents how to play with their children.

You spend an evening learning how to play with a toy yourself. Then you take it home to your youngster. It's like Christmas once a week.

Twenty minutes with a toy can be worth three hours in the classroom, says Glen Nimnicht, associate director of the Far Western Laboratory for Educational Research and Educational Development.

THE LABORATORY is a nonprofit organization supported by federal, state and private funds, and Nimnicht is one of three inventors of a set of toys to give children a healthy self image with sharpened abilities to solve problems.

The toy library was designed having in mind the great majority of parents—those too rich for the Head Start program and too poor for the private nursery schools available to the more affluent.

In the past year, about 250 toy libraries have been set up in schools, churches, day care centers and even in a Bank of America branch. The number is growing.

The toys, designed for age 3-to-8, range from the simple, such as film cans containing different objects to be shaken for their sounds, and stacking squares in different colors.

OR MORE challenging, such as matrix blocks or card decks in which identical cards are matched "by finding the rule" for matching dissimilar patterns on their backs.

One of the latter decks, says Nimicht, "really tore up our board of directors." Kids can do them much more easily than adults.

The object of the games is to teach children to notice differences and samenesses, to extend patterns, experience mathematical concepts and develop inductive reasoning.

But the library is as much a course for parents as a set of toys. Parents are given suggestions on how to treat their youngsters positively, and "role play" the parts of children with their toys.

Concern Grows Over Imported Meat

By LUCIA MOUAT
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — The American housewife is buying more imported meat these days. But how does she know it is wholesome?

Lifting of the U.S. meat import quota until year's end has spurred new concern about how adequate is the nation's inspection of such imports.

Livestock producers in particular — admittedly wary of the stepped-up competition they now face — have been suggesting that the U.S. Department of Agriculture's check on imports is much less rigorous than domestic meat inspection.

Some of them contend that too few inspectors are on the job, that they rely largely on visual rather than laboratory checks, and that much too small a sampling of the imported meat is being taken. This is the more crucial, they argue, because the American shopper does not always know the meat's country of origin when he or she buys it.

CONGRESS, TOO, has voiced its concern from time to time. Various efforts, all unsuccessful, have been made to require piece-by-piece examination of all imported meat and to recoup U.S. inspection costs by levying a tax on the importer. One move likely to be revivied in this session is a bill requiring full labeling of imported meat down the line so that a shopper need never wonder about its country of origin.

The Department of Agriculture, for a wide variety of reasons ranging from costs involved to what it argues is a simple lack of necessity, has opposed each of these moves. Agriculture officials contend the stir about import inspection, though it may stem from worthy enough motives, is thriving on misinformation rather than facts.

True, they say, the manpower assigned to foreign meat inspection is small in comparison to the domestic staff, but then the size of the job is not comparable either.

Last year the U.S. imported 1.8 billion pounds of meat while producing 36.6 billion pounds nationally. Despite the lift on quotas, the amount imported is not expected to increase greatly in 1973 since the world demand for meat is at an all-time high.

Also, exporting counties have their own inspection standards, and the U.S. officials stress this country imports only from those where standards are at least as though as its own. Some 1,000 plants in various countries have been so certified by U.S. agriculture officials.

MONITORING THESE plants, though not doing any actual inspecting, are eight U.S. veterinarians or agriculture review officers stationed overseas. Three are posted in Australian and New Zealand which together account for well over half of this country's imported meat. Backing them up are another 11 Washington-based officers who spend most of their time traveling to various plants.

"These countries know full well what our demands are and there's no attempt to keep us out of their plants," says Dr. Hyman M. Steinmetz, chief of foreign programs in the Department of Agriculture's animal, plant, and health inspection service. "I kind of wish some of the critics could get into these plants for export, because I think it would greatly improve their confidence in the system."

The job of monitoring these plants is a constant one for U.S. officials. Those exporting a significant amount of meat are visited at least four times a year while others (with the exception of Canada where virtually all meat plants have been certified as acceptable for export) are visited at least two times a year, according to Dr. Steinmetz. Last year 63 plants checked were judged unacceptable largely for sanitation reasons.

Although agriculture officials contend they are quite adequately staffed for such plant surveillance they admit requests are in for another four positions overseas and two more at home.

The other chapter in imported meat inspection begins when the cargo ships touch U.S. shores. Here 100 full-time inspectors, with part-time help from another 100, extract (and defrost if the meat is frozen) roughly one percent of each lot as a sample. Statistically, the small size of the sample and the largely visual examination are quite justifiable, according to Dr. Steinmetz. Piece-by-piece examination, he says could result in vast spoilage. He also points out that in 1972 about 1.6 per cent of the imported meat arriving for U.S. consumption was rejected in such inspections.

DR. STEINMETZ concedes that in many cases the shopper or the restaurant devotee has no way of knowing whether or not imported meat is coming his way, but he quickly adds that he does not feel in most cases it would be economically sound or of much benefit to the consumer to insist on such identification.

The bulk of meat imported into the U.S. is boneless and shortly after arrival is off for a U.S. processing plant where it may be blended to make sausage or whipped into TV dinners. To insist on keeping identity clear in such cases, says the agriculture official, would be like insisting on the identity of imported steel or rubber used in U.S. manufacturing.

All imported canned meat and fresh meat that is not processed after arrival is clearly identified as to country of origin.

Education Board Hopefuls Agree On Major Problems

By PATRICIA PERRY

Candidates for the only contested seat on the Marin County Board of Education in the April 17 election agreed today that their biggest problem is voter ignorance — hardly anyone in Marin County knows what the board does, or what the functions of the county schools office are.

Speaking on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board", Dorothy C. Brown, a trustee of the Dixie School District for 16 years, said the county schools office has a budget of $4.75 million, equivalent to Dixie's, "yet people are very naive about the function of the county board and the county schools office."

Priscilla E. Phillips, a social worker for the Marin County Department of Social Services until August last year, said there seems to be "an atmosphere of misunderstanding as to the role of the board."

The third candidate for Trustee Area No. 3, Edward Alan Tibbetts, district engineer of the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District, confessed he decided to run in the election because it appeared no candidates were forthcoming.

All three speakers reside in Area 3, newly created by redistricting. It includes all the Dixie School District, plus Santa Venetia, Los Ranchitos, and the northern portion of the San Rafael School District.

There was no dissension among the candidates as they agreed that finances and budgetary limits imposed by Senate Bill 90 will concern the county board, in common with other school district boards.

All three deplored the threatened closure of half the children's centers run by the county schools office with recent cutbacks in federal funds.

Mrs. Brown suggested that finances "along with militant teacher organizations making demands" will cause problems.

A listener asked if nationwide teacher complaints of overcrowded classrooms, insufficient supplies and low salaries applied to Marin school districts.

Tibbetts said he considered local districts are doing "a very adequate job" and although all employees would like higher salaries, he hadn't heard complaints from teacher friends.

Mrs. Phillips said Marin districts have always been above-average spenders, and the county schools office had a tremendous amount of supplies and equipment and programs to help out individual districts.

Mrs. Brown said that as the average teacher salary in the Dixie district is $15,000 a year — somewhat below the Marin county average — she didn't consider teacher salaries low.

A listener asked if the speakers considered local schools districts "overloaded with administrators and psychologists and psychometrists."

All three candidates disagreed.

"A psychologist is necessary on the school scene," explained Mrs. Phillips, "because there are a lot of problems that can be tested and evaluated. Districts can provide a program for a child in terms of his needs. All children don't fit into our structured education system."

On a recent controversy over the Forest Meadows Development Center at Dominican College, Tibbetts said he considers teachers there should be paid a higher certificated salary, instead of the current low rate as permit teachers.

The multihandicapped students, he said, are in a learning environment, and their teachers should be reclassified.

Tibbetts suggested that the county board try to get some county federal revenue sharing funds to keep the children's centers open, or ask the county welfare department for a subsidy.

The program, moderated by Kitty Openheimer, and the first in a series of political programs before the April 17 elections, will be rebroadcast by tape-recording at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Pay Raise Plea To College Panel

Pay raises of 13 and 6 per cent, respectively, were asked last night for 1973-74 by faculty and nonfaculty members in the Marin Community College District.

The requests, which would cost the district more than $575,000, were submitted to district trustees last night. No action was taken, pending negotiations with both groups.

The faculty salary proposal, involving 161 teachers, counselors, librarians and a nurse, included a 5.6 per cent boost to correct what the group called "gross and unfair disparities" in comparison of faculty wages versus professional pay in the community, a 3.4 per cent general cost of living increase and a 4 per cent hike "to meet the special cost of living problems of this region."

Any raises granted would be in addition to an average 2 per cent increase in annual pay increments.

For part-time faculty, a teacher salary committee proposed that pay be increased from 70 per cent of the full-time wage to 100 per cent, pro-rated on the basis of units taught. The district board recently agreed to raise the part-time salary from 60 to 70 per cent, although the salary committee noted that the board asked the part-time people at the same time to assume the responsibilities of full-time faculty.

The approximately 100 nonteaching people asked, in addition to a 6 per cent pay boost, for a 2.5 per cent shift differential for swing shift, graveyard and weekend workers, liberalized sick leave and permission for leaves of absence for educational or professional reasons.

Marin Community College Board Also:

REDEVELOPMENT — Agreed to meet with the San Rafael City Council at 8 p.m. April 2 at city hall to discuss the flap over the city's redevelopment project, which has led to a suit by the college district. It also will meet at 7 p.m. in the College of Marin office center for a workshop session on the college counseling department, in addition to teachers' salary requests.

SUMMER — Approved five-week and six-week summer sessions at the College of Marin and six-week and eight-week summer programs at Indian Valley Colleges.

NURSING — Approved an application for $51,500 in federal funds, to be supplemented by district money, for a combined nursing student loan and scholarship program.

INSURANCE — Increased its liability insurance from $5 million to $7.5 million at an added annual cost of $625.

VACANT — Approved filling vacant full-time teaching positions in art, chemistry, foreign language, behavioral science and business.

BICYCLE — Granted a temporary bicycle path easement across the College of Marin campus. The route will start on College Avenue near the Kentfield Post Office, traverse the parking lot and cross the bridge spanning the flood control channel.

Suspect Nabbed In Attempted Breakin At Home

A 20-year-old woman was arrested yesterday as she allegedly tried to break into a Homestead Valley home, according to Marin sheriff's deputies.

Bonnie Ellen Kay Lee, of no known address, was picked up about 7 p.m. by deputies tipped off by a neighbor. The car she was driving was reported stolen, although deputies were unable to say from whom, and a small amount of marijuana was found in the vehicle, according to officers.

She was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary, auto theft and possessing marijuana and held in lieu of $10,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Suicide Unit Said Near Bankruptcy

The Marin Suicide Prevention Center, in operation for about two years, faces "imminent bankruptcy," its executive director, Richard Reubin, said today.

At a meeting of the center's board of directors last night, ways of meeting the crisis and keeping the center in business were discussed, he said.

The center, which has a budget of $36,000 a year, will lose its two major sources of income at the end of this month, according to Reubin. He said the major funding has come from the Babcock and the San Francisco foundations.

The situation is so bad, Reubin said, that he and the other staff member, a secretary, will begin working without salaries next month.

He said it is hoped a United Bay Area Crusade allocation will pay the center's phone bill.

In the meantime, board members decided to organize a "service club" for the center, in which volunteers would raise money but not work directly at the center as telephone personnel.

The first meeting of the new group will be at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the First Presbyterian Church, San Anselmo.

Reubin said the board is also making application for state funds under the Short-Doyle Act and also exploring possibilities of additional private funding.

He said the center, which has been handling about 350 phone calls a month, already is involved in many other crisis situations in addition to possible suicides.

He hopes the center will expand further into providing crisis counseling, information and referrals in various types of situations.

Although he said he could not remain indefinitely without a salary, Reubin said, he has "faith in the center," and expects it to survive.

The City Of Jazz Has Recycling Day

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — This city of jazz, spicy creole cuisine and fever-pitched Mardi Gras celebrations recently received what might be called a "roar" of approval for its observance of Glass Recycling Day.

A cleanup and glass recycling campaign called Operation Double Barrel was held to spruce up the environs of the city and to help raise funds to improve the Audubon Zoo.

Size Determines What's A Pebble

CHICAGO (UPI) — Those pebbles on the beach must be the right size or they become something else when you throw them into the sea.

Oceanographers, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, define pebbles as having a diameter of between 2 ½ to 5-32 of an inch. If bigger, they're "cobbles," which range up to 10 inches in diameter. After they become boulders. If smaller, they're sand, silt or clay.

ART REVIEW

Minor White's Photos Engulf Nature, The Passing Of Time

By ADA GARFINKEL

Minor White's photographs are rooted in reality, but they are not just documentary.

White, a professor of photography at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in his current exhibit of photos at the Studio Gallery in Bolinas, equally demonstrates his concern with the transitory nature of things and the passage of time as vital elements in his compositions.

White, a contemporary of Ansel Adams and Alfred Stieglitz, and a former instructor at the California School of Fine Arts (now the San Francisco Art Institute), believes, however, that "the primary function of any art is to feed the imagination."

A poet as well as a photographer and a writer — he has written many articles on photography — and with a bachelor of science degree in botany, White has made an in-depth study of the Gurdjieff Russian-Eastern mystical philosophy which believes in a living spirit in all nature.

White is also a firm believer in the interaction between the photographer, his camera, and the focus of his attention. Like the Oriental archer whose bow and arrow are extensions of his arms, so White's camera is an extension of his inner being. This inner-outer reciprocal exchange between the focus of his lens, the living action of the scene, and his feeling and spiritual response to it, White refers to as "inner landscapes." They are poetical, imaginative, exquisitely crafted.

White's eye for drama in motion catches one's immediate attention in such shots as "Sandblaster," with its dark background relieved by the metallic gleam of the helmet on the mole-like worker in his rectangular pit. Or in the lighted thrust of "St. Louis Arch."

The inclusion of the element of time and its effects on living or chemical elements (weathering, erosion, decay) is also seen in the rugged converging lines and circular patterns in "Snow Plow", and in the Stonehenge-like imagery seen in "Peeling Paint."

Other engrossing relationships are encountered in "Snow on Garage Door" in which a small, two-paned window over a crossbar of beams is transformed into an icon and in "Cobblestone House" there is an enriched and vigorous fusion of light-and-dark as a result of White's radical use of infra-red film and red filters for a daytime exposure.

This exhibit may be seen on Saturdays and Sundays from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. (and by appointment) to April 20. The gallery is located above the Gibson House Restaurant at 20 Wharf Street.

There is also a small adjoining gallery which houses a permanent collection of 13 historical photos of early day Bolinas (1873-1913) and is open during all business hours of the restaurant and the Studio Gallery.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Forget-me-not! Yes, the last names of today's birthday list are well known. But can you remember the first names?

1. MARX created a lot of chaos during his 70 years of activity, but the revolution he created was in show business, not politics. He and his brothers became famous for their film comedy in such pictures as "Monkey Business," "Horsefeathers," and "Duck Soup." They were Julius, Adolph, Herbert, and Leonard, better known as Groucho, Harpo, Zeppo, and today's celebrity: (A) Karl; (B) Gummo; (C) Chico.

2. MALDEN can be seen chasing around the "Streets of San Francisco" on TV these days. But he won his 1951 Academy Award in a "Streetcar Naed Desire," not a California cablecar. Born in Chicago, he attended the Art Institute there, then went on the stage and into movies. Known on his current ABC-TV series as Lieutenant Mike Stone, his real first name is (A) Bill; (B) James; (C) Karl.

3. BALDWIN was born 80 years ago in Baltimore, Maryland, growing up to become a Pulitzer Prize winner for his excellent wartime reporting for the New York "Times" during World War II. He is an Annapolis graduate and Navy veteran, whose expertise on military affairs led him to author more than a dozen books. His first name is (A) Stanley; (B) Hanson; (C) James.

4. VAN DYCK attracts crowds wherever his work is shown, although it's usually in art galleries of Europe and America, rather than on television. This genius studied under the Flemish master artists of his time (1599-1641), becoming eventually the royal painter to King Charles I of England. His first name is: (A) Dick; (B) Anthony; (C) James.

ANSWERS: 1 - Chico Marx; 2 - Karl Malden; 3 - Hanson Baldwin; 4 - Anthony Van Dyck.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Winning Bridge Player Will Not Take Licking Very Lightly

It may be a virtue to take your licking quickly and get it over with, but this is not a good way to become a winning bridge player. The difference is clear in a hand played in a recent team match.

SAME BIDDING

The bidding was the same at both tables of the match. In both cases West opened the six of spades, and East took the ace of spades. In both cases, moreover, East continued with a low spade, and South won with the king.

At this stage the two declarers parted comapny.

One player quickly ran off eight tricks — one spade, three hearts and four diamonds —and then gave up. The play of the hand took him only about two minutes, but the result of minus-50 points was nothing to inspire dancing in the streets.

The other declarer looked for a way to make four heart tricks instead of only three. The opening bid indicated East had length in hearts. Moreover, West's failure to lead his partner's bid suit indicated that West had only one heart at most.

SIZES UP WEST

There wasn't much chance that West had the singleton jack of hearts, since he probably would have led a singleton of such a size. There was, however, the chance that West had a singleton eight or nine of hearts.

South therefore led a diamond to dummy and returned the ten of hearts. East naturally covered with the jack of hearts since South would have let the ten of hearts ride if East played low. South won with the king, and West dropped the eight.

BACK TO DUMMY

Now declarer got back to dummy with another diamond and led the deuce of hearts. East played low, and South boldly finessed with the seven of hearts.

DAILY QUESTION

♠ - K 9
♥ - K Q 7
♦ - A Q 10 4
♣ - J 10 7 2.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond. The hand is not quite worth an opening bid of one no-trump. It is worth an overcall of one no-trump because the hand is stronger when high cards are at your right.

Bad Habit: Pushing Drinks On Guests

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don't push drinks on guests at holiday or any party time. After serving the first drink, let the guests determine when they want a refill. Another bad habit of some hosts, according to health educators: Spending the evening "freshening up" drinks already in guests' hands. And the very worst habit of any host? Offering an alcoholic drink as "the one for the road."

The fire—from an exploding Molotov cocktail—was quickly extinguished, the plane landed safely and there were no injuries.

Police said someone apparently hurled the gasoline-filled bomb onto the runway as the giant Continental Airlines jet was coming in for a landing.

Permit For Bay Dredge Plan Asked

The Basalt Rock Co. of Napa County has applied for a permit to dredge about 10,000 cubic yards of material from San Pablo Bay at Point San Pedro near San Rafael.

The permit would be for maintenance dredging to increase water depth to 7.3 feet along an existing 1,400-foot pier in order to facilitate barges, according to the Army Corp of Engineers in San Francisco.

Disposal of dredged material would be at an old quarry site 1,500 feet north of the dredging area and 500 feet inland, the corp said.

Persons objecting to the proposed dredging are asked to submit their objections in writing to the U.S. Army Engineer District, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco, 94102. Objections must reach the district by April 20.

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE CALIFORNIA STATE PARKS FOUNDATION

In California and across the country many conservation and economy-minded organizations and agencies have sprung up to work for the preservation of our fast-dwindling natural resources and open lands. One of the least publicized, but most effective, of these groups is the California State Parks Foundation. Key figures, including executive director Bob Howard, are Marin residents. And thus this week's issue of the Marin Magazine takes special pleasure in spotlighting the California State Parks Foundation, its past successes, its present projects, its future objectives. The Jon Brenneis photo was taken in Henry W. Coe State Park, scene of one of the Foundation's successes.

Verbrugghen Is Named To I-J Post

Victor K. Verbrugghen, formerly a member of the internal audit staff of Shell Oil in Houston, has been named business manager of the Independent-Journal.

Verbrugghen, 33, was employed by Shell more than four years, joining the company upon graduation from Oregon State University with a bachelor of science degree in accounting.

He began as an accountant in the company's Los Angeles data service center, rose to accounting supervisor in the Menlo Park data service center, then went to Shell headquarters in Houston to work for the corporate controller on the internal audit staff.

While with Shell, Verbrugghen, a native of Park Rapids, Mich., obtained a master's degree in business administration from the University of Santa Clara.

He is an Army veteran, having served as an enlisted man in the fields of communications and special services in Germany.

Verbrugghen is the father of two daughters, Katerina Lee, 6, and Casandra Sue, 4, who live with their mother in Oregon. He is a Belmont resident.

Soviet Tour To Be Led By Teacher

Dr. Mary R. Arnold, a Sonoma State Russian professor, will lead a study tour of the Soviet Union this summer.

The tour from June 25 through July 15 will include visits to Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev. Side trips are also planned to the cathedral cities of Zagorsk and Novgorod and literary excursions to Pushkin, Tolstoy's home in Moscow and Doestoevsky's home in St. Petersburg.

The trip may be taken with or without college credit and applications must be received by April 30. Fee for the trip is $1,485, which includes travel, food and lodging.

Mrs. Arnold, an American by birth, lived in Russia with her parents for ten years and has visited the country many times. In addition to her language teaching, she has been a translator, interpreter and research linguist. The culture of the nation will be stressed on the trip.

Independent sightseeing will be permitted. Information on travel arrangements may be received from Mrs. Arnold at the college or at her home in Tiburon.

Mayor Reports Problem Solved

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — Mayor E. Michael O'Brien disclosed at a news conference Wednesday that his eight-week absence from City Hall was due to his being treated for alcoholism at a Minnesota hospital.

O'Brien, nearing the end of his mayoral term, said he felt "like a new man."

"I thank God and my wife for pulling me through," he said. The mayor, who returned to his office Monday, said he had no plans beyond finishing his term.

Transit Systems Had A Bad Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mass transit systems had a combined operating debt of $513 million last year and badly need federal subsidies, the president of the Institute for Rapid Transit has told Congress.

Dr. William J. Ronan of New York City urged the House Wednesday to support a Senate-approved bill that would allow use of highway trust funds for mass transit.

MR. KRAFTY REBOUNDS

New Life, New Image

By PAUL LIBERATORE

After retiring from a television career 10 years ago and surviving a brush with fiery death, Mr. Krafty of Corte Madera is on the comeback trail.

Dennis Colthurst, 21, manager of the Hobby Tree in Corte Madera, is breathing new life into the wooden body of Mr. Krafty, the ventriloquist's dummy that appeared regularly on "The Sir Sedley Show" over KTVU television in San Francisco a decade ago.

Sir Sedley, ventriloquist Bruce Sedley of Larkspur, went off the air then and put his puppets, Mr. Krafty included, to rest in his attic.

A fire nearly consumed Mr. Krafty's solid pine body and soul a few years ago, but Colthurst is restoring the 20-year-old dummy and will give him "a new name and a new fame," he says.

Mr. Krafty may be a dummy but he's not stupid. Anyone knows you can't make a fresh start in show biz without a new look and a new image.

Yesterday morning he was propped up in a Corte Madera barber's chair, being custom fitted for a new mod hairpiece, alongside two regular customers who seemed little impressed that the wooden head in the next chair was getting the star treatment while they got "an inch off all around."

"Mr. Krafty was on the town today," said Colthurst, "getting new shoes, being tailored for a suit and being custom fitted for a hairpiece and eyebrow job by the barber."

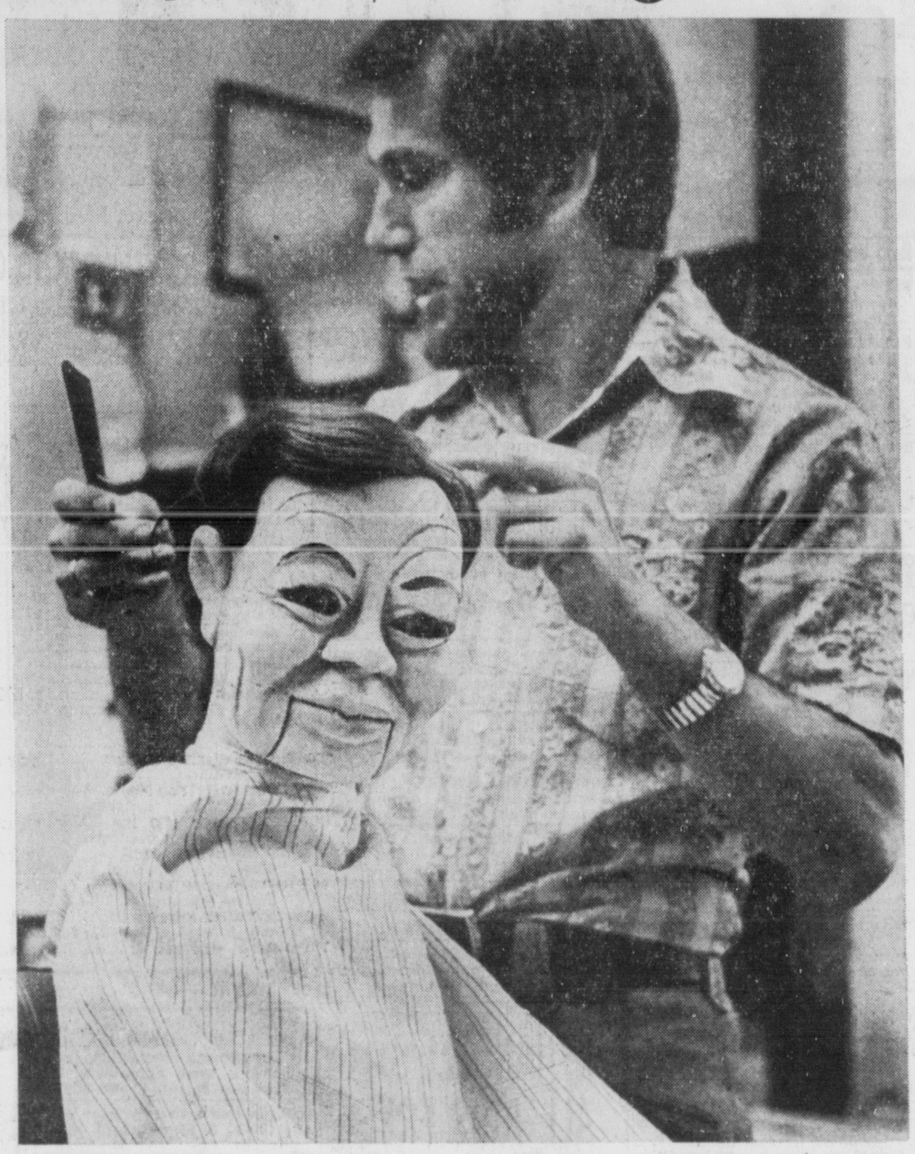
When Colthurst expressed an interest in ventriloquism, Sedley gave him Mr. Krafty to restore and since has been tutoring him in ventriloquism.

"I'm just starting in ventriloquism," Colthurst admits. "But I plan to give Mr. Krafty a personality, a voice and bring him to life."

Mr. Krafty, Colthurst explains, used to be a schemer, a cunning prankster, hence his name. But his new life will be as a professor, intelligent and conservative.

"It's all just a fun thing," says Colthurst. "It's fun to see little kids' eyes light up."

"Yeah," Mr. Krafty probably would have replied if he was fed a line like that on stage. "Just as long as they don't light up near me. Pine burns, you know."



HAIRY SCENE — Getting the careful attention from Barber Egil Mortensen that any celebrity rates, Mr. Krafty of past television fame prepares to hit the comeback trail. Mortensen, owner of Barber 3 in Corte Madera fitted his notable customer with a whole new hairdo yesterday, something to suit the formerly irascible star's new personality.

Views Of Council Hopefuls Given

By NELS JOHNSON

Six candidates vying for two seats on the San Rafael City Council in the April 17 election engaged in a spirited discussion of issues confronting the city last night, airing views on matters ranging from the city's sign ordinance to dog control, open space and redevelopment.

The event, sponsored by the Peacock Gap Homeowners Association at the local country club, marked the first candidates night to be held among council contenders Carl J. (Red) Brown, Richard C. Fox, incumbent Lawrence E. Mulryan, Jack G. Nixon, Thomas R. O'Toole and Leo Tinkler.

Though candidates offered varying shades of opinion, there was general endorsement of the city's redevelopment plans, local control of planning, the city's formation of a new general plan and open space acquisition.

Fox, though generally embracing redevelopment, criticized proposed downtown improvements for including sidewalks and widened streets but lacking "any mention of a single tree." Tinkler, who made no direct mention of redevelopment plans, blasted city-county squabbling because taxpayers "pay for both ends of the fight."

Mulryan and Nixon called for preservation of the city's hills and ridges, while O'Toole said that "each hill and each ridge will have to stand by itself" and be individually considered for acquisition after the city's general plan is completed. O'Toole offered some criticism of assessment districts as a means of acquiring open space, saying small neighborhoods are financially unable to provide funds for preservation of neighborhood parcels.

O'Toole, noting residents voted passage of a $2.25 million bond for open space acquisition last September without developing an allocation schedule, said dividing the funds will provide "a real struggle." He suggested cluster zoning for ridgelands that cannot be acquired.

Brown, Fox, Mulryan and Nixon said the city is guilty of varying degrees of poor planning. O'Toole, however, said "we really haven't been dragging our heels at planning," and cited several parcels of land saved as open space in East San Rafael and near Lucas Valley Road as part of development plans.

Other highlights of opinions expressed by the candidates are:

BROWN, athletic director of Sir Francis Drake High School, cited his experience on the city's parks and recreation commission and school board as tempering an "ability to work with people" and forging an independence in decision making. Brown called for making decisions in public session instead of discussing issues over luncheons."

Brown pledged to "tune his ear to the people of the community" if elected, said the city council should work more closely with the San Rafael Board of Education and suggested several school-owned parcels near Peacock Gap, Glenwood and San Rafael High School be purchased as open space under redevelopment.

FOX, a research chemist, dubbed his speech "Environmental Health versus New Development," and claimed there is no incompatibility between ecology and economic health since "people come to San Rafael because of its beauty and business follows them.

"Destroy that beauty and you destroy San Rafael," Fox declared, urging open space dedication be required of all developments. Fox, claiming a postcard survey has shown dog control to be a priority concern among San Rafael residents, suggested stronger leash laws and a program whereby dog owners who repeatedly violate the law be sent to dog obedience schools.

MULRYAN, appointed to the city council two years ago, said he is an advocate of more citizen involvement in city affairs and pledged continued support to the Town Meeting, Citizens Advisory Committee on the General Plan, and formation of a committee on open space bond money allocation.

He said he worked for passage of the city's sign ordinance and said the "Standard Brands" sign in the Montecito shopping center is in violation of that ordinance. He pledged to work for preservation of the Robert Dollar mansion and, if elected, to vote for extension of the city's building moratorium in June.

NIXON, chairman of the county planning commission, said long-range planning is the major task facing the city. He listed assessment district formation, scenic easements and cluster zoning as methods of preserving open space.

He listed the city's crime rate as another concern, saying 633 burglaries occurred in San Rafael last year, and suggested police liaison officers be sent to various neighborhoods to teach methods of burglary prevention. Maintaining the present housing mix is important, he said, because safety personnel who serve the community are hard-pressed to find adequate housing.

O'TOOLE, chairman of the San Rafael Planning Commission, described himself as a native son always available to discuss problems with citizens, since he works downtown as co-owner of Milani's garage. He said he is an advocate of stable, "income producing growth," such as the Firemen's Fund complex which will provide jobs for local residents. Housing is needed to go along with such growth, he said, adding he supports low-cost housing for senior citizens.

O'Toole cited the need for more police community relations work to stem burglaries, suggested the fire department establish a paramedic team and urged that the mutual fire aid agreement between city and county be tightened because "our equipment is rolling when it shouldn't be."

TINKLER, a San Rafael real estate broker, broke a round of traditional speechmaking with a fiery statement entitled "I Am Furious" that astonished an audience of about 75 residents. After polling the audience, he declared that residents who don't earn a living in an area are not interested in it, drawing wrath, then amusement, from listeners.

Claiming he wrote his speech after taking a shower three weeks ago, Tinkler, with fists sometimes pounding on the podium, said he is furious because the city's hills are being destroyed for profit of a few; real estate taxes are going up; there is a shortage of decent housing; machine politics run San Rafael; the city is plagued by dirty sidewalks, loose dogs and an oppressive sign ordinance.

Audience members asked candidates a variety of questions, with the bulk directed at O'Toole. He told listeners he had not disclosed campaign contributions since he "had no idea how much had been collected" in his behalf but will "abide by state laws" on the matter, meaning contributions will be revealed after the election.

Fox and Mulryan told questioners that plans for development of Peacock Gap Unit 5 should be held up pending completion of the city's general plan, while O'Toole frankly declared his belief that the 72-acre parcel near McNear and Peacock Drives will be earmarked in the plan for single family residential development.

Mulryan told one resident that although he works in San Francisco, he has a near perfect attendance record at council meetings.

The candidates next meet at 10 a.m. Monday before a government class of San Rafael High School students, an event which is not open to the public.

Council Candidates Split On Charter Amendments

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Candidates for two seats on the San Rafael City Council in the April 17 election are divided over charter amendments to be voted on in that same election.

The Independent-Journal questioned all candidates as to their positions on charter propositions: A, to make the City treasurer appointive; D, to earmark up to $15,000 from the hotel-motel room tax for promotional purposes; E, to allow the board of education to fill its own vacancies, and F, G and H, to allow the council to change the number of members on fire commission, parks and recreation commission, and library board.

Five of the six candidates responded. Only incumbent Lawrence Mulryan and candidate Thomas R. O'Toole favor all six of the proposed charter changes.

Jack G. Nixon said he favors all except earmarking hotel-motel room tax funds for promotion.

Carl J. Brown favors the hotel-motel room tax use, and also giving the board of education power to fill its own vacancies. He opposes making the city treasurer appointive and allowing the council to change the number of members on the commissions.

Most negative regarding the changes is Richard C. Fox. He called wording of propositions F, G and H too vague, saying he would favor expanding the commissions and board to seven members each. He gave a highly qualified "maybe" to earmarking hotel-motel room taxes for promotion. And he indicated he is against making the treasurer appointive and allowing the board of education to fill its own vacancies.

The city treasurer is now elective, but many of the duties formerly performed by the treasurer have been transferred to the appointive city finance director and some have been let out on contract to the county.

Brown gave a flat "no" to making the treasurer appointive. Fox said he preferred to keep all such offices elective "but if there has to be an exception maybe the treasurer should be it."

The city charter restricts the city to $1,000 per year in promotional expenses. Several attempts to increase this have been defeated in past elections. However, the hotel-motel room tax was imposed originally with the idea that such funds could be used for promotion — principally to help underwrite the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce. The proposed change would limit the amount so used to 25 per cent of the income from this tax to a maximum of $15,000. It would not affect the property tax.

Nixon gave a flat "no" to this. Fox said he is against restricting the use of any tax money, but is for spending more on promotion so might favor the proposed change.

Until 1967, the charter provided that in the event of a vacancy on the board of education, it would be filled by the city council, and in event of a vacancy on the council, it would be filled by the board of education if the council failed to act within 20 days.

The voters in 1967 approved a charter change removing the board of education's power to appoint to the council and requiring a special election if the council did not act within 30 days. However, it left appointment to board of education vacancies with the council. (Incidentally, the only council vacancy occurring since that change has found the council unable to agree on an appointment.)

School boards not governed by city charters come under a California Education Code requirement, passed several years ago after being introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, which requires special elections in all cases. Bagley pushed the measure to end what he called "political incest" in school board appointments (a term which state Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, has picked up in pushing for similar laws for other special districts).

The proposed charter change would allow the board to fill its own vacancies, which it has never done and could not do under the state law applying to most school districts.

Fox, the only candidate opposing this, said: "I like the idea of the council filling the board's vacancies and vice versa. Too bad it wasn't done that way recently."

The charter limits the fire commission, parks and recreation commission, and library board to five members each, and the planning commission to seven members. In placing proposition F, G and H on the ballot, the council made no mention of the planning commission, thus indicating its intent is to increase the others to seven members.

However, the propositions merely say the charter shall be amended to allow the council to set the number of members. City Atty. Fred C. Robbins Jr. interprets this to give the council power to cut the membership or even do away with it.

Brown, the only candidate expressing flat opposition to this, said:

"It may not be a bad idea to have all of the boards elected. In this way the council would not be in a position to appoint their buddies. A case in point is the open seat on the council at this time. Four mature councilmen couldn't choose one citizen from eight applicants. It appears to me that the 'what's in it for me syndrome' keeps rearing its ugly head."

Council candidate Leo Tinkler has not responded to the I-J's questionnaire.

Two other proposed charter changes will be on the April 17 ballot: to change elective office residency requirements and the amount of a contract permissible without public bidding to conform to state law. These were considered non-controversial and not included in the questionnaire.

First School Hopeful Announces

The terms of Arthur L. Lafranchi, Dr. William K. Kortum and Dr. Wesley W. Ebert will expire. None has indicated if he will seek reelection.

Mrs. Cook, 36, is president of the Save Our Schools Committee, which last year raised $27,000 to prevent the closing of Grant School because of lack of funds. She also is active in Parent-Teacher Association work.

Mrs. Cook served on the Petaluma Development Allotment board and on citizen committees to study the city environmental design plan. She was an unsuccessful candidate for the city council in 1971.

She and her husband, Richard G. Cook, live at 36 Mission Drive, with their three children, Stewart, Eileen and Kevin.

Mrs. Cook, a native of San Francisco, attended Burroughs Corp. Business School and taught there for two years. She is employed on a part-time basis at Cader Egg Farms, Petaluma.

If you are looking for that clean, older little Chev 2-dr. hardtop with low mileage — then you just can't find one better than this one-owner little Malibu coupe that we just took in trade from local lady who purchased it new in 1965 and has used it strictly as a second car in the family by the lady of the house.

This cascade blue coupe has automatic transmission, radio, heater, power steering and the economy minded small V-8 engine. This little car gets excellent gas mileage and requires little maintenance. HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Smallpox Is Almost Eradicated But Monkeypox A New Threat

We've almost seen the last of smallpox (variola), but are now confronted with monkeypox. This serious, widespread disease mainly affects primates, including chimpanzees and other apes.

It was found originally in monkeys in captivity in Europe and later in North America. To date, monkeypox is rare among apes in their natural environment. However, the disease is spreading to man, producing an illness resembling smallpox.

The monkeypox virus is closely related to the viruses that cause smallpox and cowpox. In fact, it is difficult to distinguish one from the other. On the other hand, there is considerable difference in the immune reactions that develop in the blood from each of these pox viruses. In addition, an attack of monkeypox does not immunize against smallpox or cowpox.

ODDLY, WHEN one member of the family develops monkeypox he cannot pass it on to others in the household. The only infecting sources of human cases have been ill lower primates.

But despite the seeming lack of the disease in wild animals, most of the cases of monkeypox in humans have been reported from Africa. It is disturbing because worldwide efforts to eradicate smallpox have been progressing satisfactorily, except in many of the West African countries.

Authorities are beginning to suspect that monkeys and apes may be the animal reservoir for smallpox. The organism changes (mutation) after it gets a foothold in the primate, and the final outcome may be a source of new outbreaks of pox infection. To date, no one has developed a true smallpox from this animal reservoir.

THE VICTIM of onkeypox is sick for two o five days with chills, fever, headache, malaise, and nausea. This is followed by a diffuse rash with small cloudy blisters (poxes) scattered over the body. These lesions differ from smallpox and chickenpox in that the pox is discrete, deepseated, and filled with thick gluey fluid. None of the victims had been vaccinated, but all recovered.

Tanapox is a new, unrelated disease from Africa. It is also transmitted from primates to man mechanically on the contaminated mouth parts of blood-sucking insects.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

ONE EYE WINKS

REPLY

I don't know unless it is because you never learned to wink the other. My father could wink only one eye and lived to be 94.

RARE DIABETES

E. E. Writes: What is water diabetes?

REPLY

You probably refer to diabetes insipidus, a rare chronic disease in which large volumes of water are excreted. There is no sugar in the urine. It is a disorder of the pituitary gland, which fails to manufacture the hormone that helps the body retain its fluids.

HYDROPHOBIA

H. P. writes: Can a person get hydrophobia if he is bitten by a healthy animal?

REPLY

No, but have a competent veterinarian decide whether the pet is healthy.

OIL OF CAMPHOR

K. S. writes: Is oil of camphor good for the skin, especially for shrinking fat (for instance, loose fat in upper arm)? The rumor, at present, is that it does show results if rubbed into the skin and left on for an hour each night and day.

REPLY

There is no harm in using oil of camphor for the skin. It will not, however, loosen the fat or make it disappear. Fat is located deep in the skin and even if it were penetrated by the oil of camphor there is no reason to believe that it would have the effect you mentioned. When a person goes on a low calorie diet, the fat deposits in the skin are burned up into water and carbon dioxide. The carbon dioxide is eliminate by the lungs and the water via the kidneys. For most people exercise — better, wearing long sleeves solves this problem.

CANCER FEAR

S. S. writes: Does cortisone stimulate or reactivate an old cancer?

REPLY

Come again. It is unusual for cancers to become old. Unless eliminated, they continue to grow until the end. Certain hormones retard or hasten cancer and cortisone tends to slow up the growth of many tumors.

CALCIUM NEEDED

K. B. writes: What is done for osteoporosis? Are some foods more beneficial than others? Is there a wonder drug for this disease? I get so weak, my legs hardly hold me up.

REPLY

Osteoporosis, a bone thinning disease, is caused principally by excessive calcium loss. As a rule, the spine and weight bearing joints are involved. At least 30 per cent of the victims are women past the menopause; the majority of the others are oldsters. Consume a diet high in calcium, including milk and ample proteins. A mixture of male and female hormones may be helpful. Exercise also helps. Steroids, such as cortisone, should not be used because they may aggravate osteoporosis by increasing the elimination of calcium. Our leaflet on this bone disease can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

Student Dropouts In Texas Decline

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — There were 54,909 dropouts from Texas schools in 1972, the Texas Education Agency reports. The figure represents 3.2 of the total public school enrollment. In 1968-69, the agency said 5.3 per cent of the students quit.

Ex-POW Tells Of The Election

LYNCHBURG, Va. (UPI) — North Vietnamese propaganda was so effective that American prisoners of war thought George McGovern might win the presidential election last fall, according to a former prisoner of war.

"We were really happy that Nixon won," says S.Sgt. David N. Harker. "We thought it was a vote of confidence in the President."

Harker, 27, spent five years in Communist hands, three years in South Vietnam under the Viet Cong and two years in a Hanoi prison nicknamed "Plantation Gardens."

Propaganda about the antiwar movement disturbed the prisoners, he said, particularly the activities of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW).

The prisoners were shown a film of VVAW spokesman John Kerry's emotional appearance before a congressional committee, Harker said, in which Kerry appealed for a quick end to the war.

"It hurt us to know their feelings were like they were," Harker said. "We couldn't understand it."

The POWs were especially dismayed by a demonstration in which VVAW members hurled their Vietnam medals onto the Capitol grounds, he said.

North Vietnamese propaganda played up the antiwar movement, with protest songs on Radio Hanoi and films and reports of the visits of actress Jane Fonda and former Attorney General Ramsey Clark, Harker said.

Radio Hanoi's explanation of the Son Tay raid in which U.S. commandoes tried to snatch POWs from a camp in the North was that "the raid was to kill the prisoners to keep them from saying how good their treatment was," Harker said.

The Communists also did their best to keep word of President Nixon's visit to China from getting to the prisoners, he said.

"Every month they'd show us a Chinese pictorial magazine with pictures of production brigades, and who visited China, and who got liquidated. But one month we didn't get it, and we found it all torn up and thrown in the trash. We put the pictures together and found out about Nixon's visit," he said.

Radio Hanoi did carry word of the landing of Apollo 11, but not subsequent moon landings, he said. He avidly watched "fantastic" films of the moon adventures while at Valley Forge Hospital in Pennsylvania.

Life in "plantation gardens" was almost idyllic compared to the bamboo prisons of the South, Harker indicated. "They didn't torture us physically but there was a lot of pushing around," he said.

Maj. Floyd Kushner of Danville, Va., an Air Force doctor whose wife Valerie seconded McGovern's nomination, was a key figure in Harker's group in the South, he said.

"He was of great importance," Harker said. "He didn't have any medicine or instruments, but he nursed our patients and eased our minds quite a bit."

Several men died in the south, Harker said, of what Kusher called a type of edema similar to beri-beri and caused by a lack of protein in the diet.

Harker said he plans to return to Virginia Tech to study accounting.

"I had completed two quarters of my third year before I dropped out" to join the Army, Harker said. "My grades weren't what they should have been."

Insane Test Defendant Is Found Guilty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Grant Powell, 28, who had shouted "I am hardcore sane" during his trial, was found guilty but insane Wednesday night in the shooting of a policeman and the kidnaping of five persons in a getaway attempt.

Judge S. Lee Vavuris ordered him sent to the state mental hospital in Atascadero following the jury's rulings.

Powell was convicted of wounding patrolman Jay Rogovoyo in 1969 while the officer was guarding the home of Superior Court Judge Bernard Glickfield.

Police said that after the shooting he commandeered a passing car and took its five occupants hostage until he was captured in Gilroy.

Powell told police that he was out to get Glickfeld because he felt the judge's sentencing of a rapist was too lenient.

Two months after the shooting Powell was declared insane and sent to a state mental hospital. However, his attorneys gained a trial on the basis of a U.S. Supreme Court decision which guaranteed trials even if the defendant was found insane.

FOR MARIN CAR BUILDER

2nd Indy Race Appearance

By RON LENT

Mill Valley Veteran car builder Marvin Webster will be making his second appearance at the Indianapolis 500 auto race May 30. And Northern California's lone race representative is "doing it as a lark. It's my hobby."

He will be racing the car bought from driver Johnny Rutherford. The 65-year-old race car builder states that his car has a 897 horsepower motor in 163 cubic inches. It will run at Indy as "Webster's Offy."

"I'm in it only for the fun of it," he smiles. "That's why I went in 1970" when driver Kevin Bartlett of Australia failed to qualify. "I don't need the money." Indeed, that is why two years ago he bought driver Jerry Grant's race car valued at $50,000 for a mere $15,000. He plans to rebuild the 1968 Eagle at a later dale.

Meanwhile, Webster is preparing to return to Indy "only because I find it enjoyable. It's an expensive hobby, but I like it.

"Heck, anyone can pay the $1,000 entry fee and race." However, the Marinite is putting more on the line than $1,000. He is staking his motor-building expertise, world-wide reputation, and $200,000 in costs for his hobby.

He is confronting race teams with seemingly unlimited budgets. Webster claims that the Parnelli Jones racing team has about a $2.5 million budget, but this doesn't faze Webster.

"They're paid to produce. They must put forth good performances. I don't. I don't answer to any sponsors, because that would tie me down. I'm my own boss. I would have it no other way."

And that's the way it is in his Webster Racing Enterprises shop at 244 Shoreline Highway, Mill Valley where he was interviewed. He displayed one of three race motors worth about $30,000 to be used at Indy.

Webster is noted throughout the auto racing world for his premiere motors characterized by expert workmanship. This carried over into molding gears. Webster contends that "a larger percentage of the Indy drivers use our transmission gears."

Why? Better workmanship and material... they can't match the steel we use," he asserts. Webster began producing gears four years ago when he became dissatisfied with the great Britain manufacturer's product.

"Why spend the money overseas when we can build our own

MOTOR WORK — Mill Valley race car builder Marin Webster works on the engine of the vehicle (background) he entered in the Indianapolis 500 auto race set May 30. The Marinite will be shipping his car and three motors to the track, along with his four-man crew in preparing for his second Indy competition. His car failed to qualify in the 1970 race.

A's Hunter Is Prepared For Season

Combined AP & UPI

Wednesday in his third start of the spring Hunter went seven innings as the world champion Oakland A's downed the Milwaukee Brewers 7-1.

Hunter was pounded around in his first spring start but last Saturday pitched shutout ball over five innings against the San Francisco Giants.

In Wednesday's game, he limited the Brewers to four hits and one run in becoming the first A's pitcher to go seven innings. He'll have at least two more tuneups before the season opens on April 6.

In order to give the staff more opportunities to work with the regular season less than two weeks away, A's skipper Dick Williams chopped five youngsters from the staff. They were Don Shaw, Chris Floethe, Gilberto Marcano, Buddy Copeland and Pat Tatom.

Also cut were non-roster catchers Frank Fernandez and Bill Fitzgerald.

The A;s had 10 hits and all seven of their runs off Milwaukee starter Fred Gladden during four innings.

The world champion A's produced two first-inning runs off sacrifice flies by Joe Rudi and Gene Tenace after Bill North's leadoff double and Gonzale Marquez' single.

Dal Maxvill scored from second on an error by first basemen George Scott in the second inning. Dick Green led off the inning with the first of his two doubles, took third on Maxville's single and scored on an infield out.

The A's last two runs were added in the fourth on doubles by Green and Rudi around a single by Marquez.

The A's host Arizona State, the nation's No. 1 college team with a 23-0 record, today. The Sun Devils beat the Milwaukee "B" team Wednesday.

McDowell To Pitch Against Milwaukee

Ailing Giant In Test Today

Combined AP & UPI

McDowell, who was so disgusted with arthritic pain in his back, shoulder and arms that he left camp Tuesday, was back Wednesday doing a little running and throwing. He was given medications for his ailment and will try to regain his status as one of baseball's most feared pitchers.

"I was terribly low Tuesday when I started packing my grips," said McDowell, who was thinking of going home to Monroeville, Pa. He said he changed his mind about leaving after a doctor examined his sore back and told him it would improve with medication and therapy.

"The doctor said I possibly could pitch for five more years," said McDowell, 30. "I'll give it my best effort. If I can't pitch well enough, well that will be the end of it. But I'll give myself another chance."

Fox said Frank Riccelli, 20, the strikeout king of the Texas League last summer, is staying on the team. Fox said he has decided to keep Riccelli through the training period in the belief the youngster could make the jump to the National League from the Amarillo farm club.

This morning, weather permitting, McDowell was due to throw against the Milwaukee Brewers' B team. Lefty Ron Bryant was tabbed to hurl the afternoon game against the California Angels.

"I'd like to see Bryant go seven," said Fox. "We're a little behind because of the wet weather, but there still is plenty of time to catch up. The catching up begins now."

NEW ORLEANS GOLF

Barber Loosens Up For Tourney

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Miller Barber loosened up for today's opening round in the $125,000 Greater New Orleans Open (GNOO) with a pretournament victory in the pro-am.

Barber, a native of Shreveport, La., shot a four-under par 68 to take the $500 top prize Wednesday.

The 41-year-old University of Arkansas graduate has won at least one tournament in each of the last six years, including the 1970 GNOO, and has more than $659,000 career winnings.

Jim Colbert, winner of last week's Greater Jacksonville Open, picked up $150 in the pro-am event, finishing tied for third in the team handicap division. Colbert, who has won $30,400 on the tour this year, joined with three other amateurs for a 13-under par 59.

Finishing one stroke out of the team money was a foursome headed by former U.S. Open champion Orville Moody and Col. George Hall of Hattiesburg, Miss., a returned Vietnam prisoner of war.

Hall, who spent seven years in a North Vietnamese prison camp, was one of the top golfers in the armed forces before his capture. He and Moody, who was a sergeant at the time, played a round of golf prior to Hall's departure for Indochina.

Moody said that in 1965 he and Hall "played almost even" but now he had no reservations about defeating the officer.

"I'm the general out here," Moody said pointing to the 7,080-yard layout at Lakewood Country Club.

"I don't think the seven years has hurt my game too much," Hall said after finishing with a nine-over par 81. "I felt really good out there."

The former POW had a strong iron game, placing one seven-iron shot six feet from the fin on a 150-yard par three.

"I think they must have had a nine-hole course over there for this guy," Moody said. "He had to have been practicing some where these last seven years. Nobody can hit like that after a seven-year layoff."

Despite Barber's strong round, Colbert's recent win and the Moody-Hall reunion, New Orleans fans crowded to the pro-am in windy 60-degree weather to see Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus.

"Arnie's army" followed patiently as the 43-year-old pro scrambled for a one-over par 73.

Besides Barber, six other former GNOO champions tee off today but defending champion Gary Player skipped the tournament to recover from surgery.

George Knudson, the former Canadian Open winner who won at New Orleans in 1967, had a 70 in the pro-am event to win $162.85. Mason Rudolph, 1964 GNOO champ, also finished in the money Wednesday, picking up $150 for a third place tie in the pro-am team handicap event.

'Social Meeting' In Spring Training

PHOENIX — When baseball club presidents huddle while spring exhibition games are being played it is not illogical to assume that they are talking trade.

Thus, when Bob Howsam powwowed the other day with Horace Stoneham while the Giants were playing a Cactus League exhibitioner, rumors of a trade between the Cincinnati Reds and San Francisco Giants permeated Phoenix Municipal Stadium.

Howsam is president of the Reds who won everything in the National League last season but bowed to the Oakland A's in the World Series. And Stoneham, of course, is president of the Giants.

BUT SURELY Howsam hadn't come to Arizona just to watch Cactus League games when he could have stayed in Florida and watched his own Reds in Grapefruit League action.

"Well, to tell the truth," said Howsam, "I'm always looking for ways to improve our ball club."

"I never once mentioned Bonds in my most pleasant talk with Mr. Stoneham," said Howsam.

AND THAT was true. Stoneham confirmed the fact that no ball players were named by Howsam — no Giant ball players.

But Howsam did mention Bonds by name as the 1972 season was coming to a close. He asked Jerry Donovan, Stoneham's executive assistant, on the Giants' last 1972 visit into Cincinnati, whether Bonds was available.

"ONLY FOR SOMEONE like Steve Carlton," Donovan told Howsam. Since Carlton pitches for the Philadelphia Phillies, not the Reds, that ended that talk.

Donovan was aware of the Howsam-Stoneham meeting but said he hadn't been briefed by his boss on what was discussed.

"I believe," said Donovan, "Howsam is looking for outfield help but he isn't going to get Bonds from us. I told him that last year."

Hamilton's Wells Wins Two Fights

LOWELL, Mass. (UPI) — Nick Wells, a heavyweight from Hamilton Air Force Base, moved into the semi-finals of the National Golden Gloves Championship today, but had his streak of 15 consecutive knockouts broken.

Wells of Fort Worth, Tex., outpointed Leroy Jones of Salt Lake City in his second fight of the day Wednesday. Earlier in the day, he knocked out Lamar Robinson of Cleveland in the first 30 seconds of their fight. It was the 15th straight time Wells had stopped an opponent in the first minute of a bout.

Another Hamilton AFB fighter, Jerome (Jerry) Bennett of Tacoma, Wash., was outpointed by 165-pounder Roy Hollis in the quarter-finals. Hollis earlier knocked out Laverne Thomas of Indianapolis, Ind., in 33 seconds.

'ASTOUNDING' — Heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman has good reason for smiling today. This morning, the Hayward, Calif., resident received an "astounding" offer from veteran British promoter Jack Solomons to defend his crown against Muhammad Ali in London at an unspecified date. Contract details were not disclosed but Solomons said today in London that "Foreman and his manager were astounded at the offer and very, very interested."

OAKLAND — The California Golden Seals returned home today after a short but sour National Hockey League road trip.

The Seals lost both of their road outings, the latest 5-2 to Pittsburgh Wednesday night. One night earlier, Long Island had clipped the Seals 6-3.

The Seals have four more games this season, starting

Coach Wooden Brings Teaching Formula

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — University of California at Los Angeles basketball coach John Wooden used to be an English teacher and he brought from teaching to coaching what he calls the "laws of learning."

For the last six years Wooden's Bruins have won the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball title and Wooden is looking for them to repeat one more time.

They enter the 1973 semifinals against big ten champion Indiana Saturday at the St. Louis arena before a sellout crowd of more than 19,000. In the other semifinal match, Missouri Valley Conference champ Memphis State will meet Providence.

Wooden told a news conference Wednesday that pride means a lot to any coach and that because of his pride, winning this title would mean as much to him as winning any of his eight others — except the first.

"If you have pride about you," he said, "and I think every coach has it, you try to do your best each and every year. Each year I tell the team it has to establish its own identity, not based on what was done last year or the year before that. It's what you do today that counts.

"More overcoaching is done in basketball than undercoaching", Wooden said, adding that renlentless drills on the fundamental aspects of the game have made his teams winners.

NHL ROUNDUP

Banner Night For Canadien Mahovlich

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Frank Mahovlich could hardly have planned it better if he tried.

Mahovlich Wednesday night became only the fifth National Hockey League player in history to score 500 career goals and just to add some spice, the score carried the Montreal Canadiens to the NHL East Division title. Mahovlich had the winning goal at 1:17 of the final period as the Canadiens beat the Vancouver Canucks 3-2 to capture their 16th regular season title.

"I had plenty of chances and I should have scored earlier," Mahovlich said. "But I'll take an easy goal like that. It makes up for all those I missed. I saw the way the puck rolled by Dunc Wilson and I couldn't believe that it was going into the net."

Mahovlich joins Gordie Howe, Bobby Hull, Maurice Richard and Jean Beliveau as the only 500-goal scorers in history but Mahovlich sees a lot more joining the list in the future.

"All the players kept talking about my 500th goal to me for the past few weeks and they made me very conscious of it," he said. "So it was like a drag finally waiting for it to happen. That's all they kept talking about, that 500th goal. But figures don't mean too much anymore in today's hockey. The game is changing and so are the players. Look at some of those players all getting close to 50 goals this year. They'll probably all reach the 500 mark in only 10 years."

"It feels good to win (the championship). You never think you're going to miss but it has happened before. There was a lot of pressure on the boys tonight and especially on Mahovlich."

In other NHL action, the Pittsburgh Penguins downed the California Golden Seals 5-2, the St. Louis Blues beat the Detroit Red Wings 6-3, the Chicago Black Hawks whipped the Buffalo Sabres 6-2 and the Los Angeles Kings defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-1.

SuperBowl Proposal By Davis

OAKLAND (UPI) — The housewives of America may not like this but now there is talk of having not one but three Super Bowl games to decide the championship of the National Football League.

Al Davis, the managing general partner of the Oakland Raiders, said Wednesday he will make a proposal this weekend to his fellow members of the NFL's Competition Committee for a best of three Super Bowl Series.

"I've never explored the Super Bowl Series idea with the other committee members, so I have no idea what the group might think of it. I believe it's provocative and has a lot of merit."

Paul Brown of the Cincinnati Bengals, Tex Schramm of the Dallas Cowboys and Jim Finks of the Minnesota Vikings are the other members of the NFL Competition Committee.

As Davis sees it, each of the three television networks would have an opportunity to handle one game and one of the contests might be staged at night for maximum exposure.

"It also might be a home and home arrangement," Davis said. It might not happen this year but it might in the future."

Davis said the Committee has a lot of other ideas to explore this weekend and will take its recommendations to Phoenix on April 2 to present to the NFL owners' meeting there.

Some of the other ideas being talked about, he said, include sudden death to eliminate ties, the two point conversion rule, instant replays to decide close plays and a rule prohibiting tampering with coaches from other clubs.

"The commissioner (Pete Rozelle) is determined that pro football not stand still like some other sports but take a forward step," Davis said. "I think some of the proposals we'll be discussing this weekend will become a reality."

"By constant repetition it comes to the point that it's not the championship you're after but just doing well."

The Walton gang, nicknamed after towering junior center Bill Walton, is intimidating but Indiana Coach Bobby Knight said his team is not afraid of playing the school that has spawned a basketball dynasty. Knight and Providence Coach Dave Gavitt also talked with reporters via a conference telephone call while Memphis State Coach Gene Bartow met with writers in person.

Knight acknowledged the psychological factor in playing UCLA, victorious in its last 73 games, but said that such an edge is "something you don't try to combat in any way—you just go out knowing you're playing against the very best."

The Memphis State-Providence battle will center on two outstanding backliners — Larry Finch of Memphis State, who scored 32 points in the Tigers' quarterfinal Victory over Kansas State, and Providence's Ernie DiGregorio, the 6-foot guard who pumped in 30 points in little mor than a half to lead the Friars in their 103-89 win over Maryland.

Of DiGregorio, Gavitt said, "Everything we've tried to do offensively has centered around his talents. We've tried to give him pretty much of a free hand and have had a free-wheeling offense. He's a great basketball player, a great guard and a great team leader."

Bartow, whose Tigers have never been victorious in St. Louis in Missouri Valley play, returned the compliments, saying all of his scouting reports "rave about DiGregorio.

Like most of his other auto racing ventures, gear production blossomed into big success. His life is punctuated by whirls and successes, dating back to his early years in Southern California where he raced cars in the 1920s. "But I'm mechanically inclined; I'm more interested in mechanics than driving." His biggest victory was in 1935 when he won the Pacific Coast Sprint Car Championship with driver Art Armstrong. Eventually, he graduated into Can-Am competition, and, at one point in 1967, he had three cars in Laguna Seca races.

Surprisingly, Webster wouldn't cross the street to see an auto race — even with his own cars entered. "I'm only interested in the qualifying — that's the important part. You want to achieve maximum speed and handling efficiency. And this is accomplished in the qualifying. I just lose interest after that.

"Luck is 80 per cent of racing. Take my getting into this business. When I bought Grant's car and equipment, he was broke; he had to sell. It was too good a deal to pass up."

Make no mistake about it, Webster may consider racing a hobby, a lark; but he takes it seriously. He expects that it will take a 190 miles per hour speed to qualify in runs May 19-20 and 26-27.

"I can do it with a good driver," he says. Veteran Bob Harkey will drive Webster's black-painted car with white and red trim. Webster and his four-man crew leaves April 24 for Indy.

Beyond that, Webster's plans are indefinite. "I could sell out the day after the race for all I know. I'll take it as it comes. I'll quit when it's no longer interesting." And Marvin Webster would have it no other way.

Peterson Draws Wrath Of Fans

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Whether he likes it or not, Fritz Peterson stands out bigger than life on the baseball diamond.

The wise-cracking New York Yankee left-hander, who gained notoriety a couple of weeks ago when he made public his "life swap" with teammate Mike Kekich, was the unwilling recipient of an informal fan survey into his private life Wednesday.

By a voice count of the 4,320 fans gathered in Al Lang Field in St. Petersburg, Fla., Peterson was a resounding loser. He did manage to gain a split decision, though, since he worked five innings on the mound and emerged as the winning pitcher in a 6-2 Yankee triumph over the New York Mets.

"I'd like to think they were booing me because they're Mets' fans and hate the Yankees," Peterson joked following his stint, in which he allowed two runs, including a homer to Willie Mays, and was booed each time he came to bat. "But I guess I know that wasn't the real reason."

With the regular season beginning exactly two weeks from today, a number of baseball's big men are taking away the play from the youngsters in the exhibition games. Hank Aaron, Frank Robinson, Billy Williams, Joe Torre, Harmon Killebrew, Bill Melton and Richie Hebner all contributed big hits on Wednesday while Jim "Catfish" Hunter turned in a strong pitching performance.

Aaron, who will continue his quest of Babe Ruth's record total of 714 homers once the season starts, slugged his first one of the spring at West Palm Beach, Fla., to help the Atlanta Braves beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2 and Robinson, playing his first game of the year, cracked a 400-foot homer and Vada Pinson added two triples to lead the California Angels to a 14-4 romp over the San Diego Padres at Yuma, Ariz.

Williams drove in four runs with his first homer and a sacrifice fly to lift the Chicago Cubs to a 7-5 win over the Cleveland Indians at Yuma, and Torre had a double and two singles for three RBI's to lift the St. Louis Cardinals to a 9-1 rout of the Philadelphia Phillies at Clearwater, Fla.

Killebrew homered for Minnesota, but was overshadowed by teammate Larry Hisle, who had three homers, including an inside-the-park shot, as the Twins defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 10-7 at Orlando, Fla. Hisle's three homers, giving him six for the spring, accounted for five runs and Minnesota also got a homer from Danny Thompson.

Melton, the designated hitter, drove in two runs with a double and a homer as the Chicago White Sox edged the Boston Red Sox, 3-2, at Winter Haven, Fla., and Hebner, who is batting .457, delivered a three-run homer, a single and a double to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 5-2 decision over the Detroit Tigers at Bradenton, Fla.

Hunter became the first Oakland pitcher to work seven innings, allowing Milwaukee a run on four hits, as the world champion A's beat the Brewers 7-1 at Mesa, Ariz.

In other games, Don Baylor homered and doubled and rookie first baseman Enos Cabell had three hits as Baltimore beat Cincinnati 7-1 at Tampa, Fla.; Hal McRae's tworun homer made the difference in Kansas City's 5-3 win over Houston at Fort Myers, Fla.; and Hal Breeden's two-run double capped a three-run first inning and Montreal went on to beat Texas 7-5 at Pompano Beach, Fla.

Also on Tuesday, Keith Strange of Terra Linda lowered the 100 breast standard to 1:03.6 and Dick Atwood of Tamalpais reduced his own 100 back time to 1:00.5.

The best times:

Warriors, Milwaukee Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) — Within the next week, the Golden State Warriors will have a big hand in determining their playoff opponent.

It will be either the Milwaukee Bucks or Los Angeles Lakers, depending on which one finishes with the best record. Tonight, the Warriors host the Bucks at the Coliseum-Arena in their final regular season meeting.

Los Angeles currently has 57 wins and Milwaukee 56. If the Bucks should finish ahead of the Lakers in percentage, they would pick up an extra $10,000 and win the right to meet the Warriors in the opening round of the playoffs. And vice versa.

Milwaukee also must play the Lakers in Los Angeles. And the Lakers end the season next Wednesday night in Oakland.

In between, the Warriors play the Phoenix Suns in a home-and-home series and also entertain Buffalo. Golden State must win its final five games to match its alltime high of 51 victories achieved last season.

Forward Bob Dandridge did not make the trip with the Bucks because of a groin injury But Mickey Davis is doing a fine job in filling in for Dandridge Davis canned 15 points in the Bucks 119-96 win over Seattle Wednesday night.

Forward Cazzie Russell of the Warriors has a bruised wrist but is expected to be ready for the Bucks.

In five meetings this season, the Bucks have defeated the Warriors four times.

Elder Has Best Shot Put Mark

The shot put of 56-10½ uncorked by Redwood High School's Darrell Elder Friday was the longest ever thrown by a Marin prep athlete, Giant coach Doug Basham has confirmed.

Basham, who annually compiles a list of the best track times and distances in Marin history, said the longest previous put was 56-7 by Drake's Reg Carolan in 1957.

Elder, who also won the discus in 157-0, joins two other athletes who each have recorded two of the Marin County Athletic League's best boys varsity dual-meet times or distances this year. Terra Linda's Steve Johnson is best in the 100-yard dash (10.5) and the 220 (22.9), while San Rafael's Greg Campbell has the best 120 high hurdles time (16.1) and 330 lows (40.2).

2 College Cage Games Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Invitation Tournament's quarter-final doubleheader at Madison Square Garden will be held tonight.

A pair of upset winners in opening NIT games, Fairfield and Virginia Tech, tangle in tonight's opener with Alabama and Minnesota going in the second game. The winners clash Saturday in one of the tournament's semifinal matches.

Fairfield and Virginia Tech weren't really expected to get past tough first round opponents. But George Groom's 23 points and 19 by Phil Rogers helped Fairfield to an 80-76 decision over Marshall and Tech took New Mexico 65-63 with 6-7 Allan Bristow scoring 26 points and grabbing 10 rebounds.

"They are as powerful and physical as any basketball team I've ever seen," said Alabama's Coach C. M. Newton after watching Minnesota, 21-4, wipe out Rutgers 68-59.

Parks, Two Others Traded To Oilers For Two Saints

Combined AP & UPI

HOUSTON — The Houston Oilers picked up tight end Dave Parks, linebacker Tom Stincic and quarterback Edd Hargett from the New Orleans Saints yesterday in a National Football League trade.

In return, the Oilers sent defensive tackle Ron Billingsley and quarterback Kent Nix to the Saints.

Stincic a 6-4, 230-pound five-year veteran from Michigan, was the backup man for Leroy Jordan of the Dallas Cowboys until going to the Saints in midseason last year. He could replace retired Garland Boyette for the Oilers.

Parks, 31, a 10-year pro from Texas Tech, was an All-Pro choice in 1966 with the San Francisco 49ers.

More Football

TORRANCE, Calif. — Denver Broncos linebacker Don Parrish was told yesterday that if he completes a year in a drug rehabilitation program, narcotics possession charges against him will be dropped.

Parrish, 24, was arrested at the airport here Nov. 13 by federal agents who said he was carrying 13 grams of cocaine. The prosecution recommended the drug rehabilitation program, standard procedure for first offenders. The judge told Parrish, a Stanford University product, that if he does not complete the program, the criminal proceedings against him will be resumed.

CINCINNATI — Cincinnati Bengals' linebacker Al Beauchamp was fined $50 and court costs yesterday by Municipal Court judge Thomas C. Heekin on a charge of assault and battery. Beauchamp, 28, was charged with hitting a tow truck driver on Dec. 11, 1972 when the driver attempted to remove the football player's car from a loading dock.

Swimming

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — The College Swimming Coaches of America, Inc., have chosen Bob Horn of UCLA as their coach of the year.

The selection was announced last night at the annual coaches award banquet, held in this east Tennessee city where the National Collegiate Athletic Association Swimming and Diving Championships opened today at the Tennessee Student Aquatic Center.

Track-Field

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — A junior high school trackman collapsed and died yesterday just as he finished running his second warm-up sprint. Cause of death was not determined immediately.

Authorities said Douglas Wheeler, 14, Lafayette, an eighth-grader at Sunnyside Junior High, crumpled to the ground just as he finished the second of a pair of 220-yard dashes.

Tennis

ATLANTA — Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., yesterday easily swept past Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia 6-4, 6-2 to advance to the quarter-finals of the Peachtree Tennis Classic.

AKRON, Ohio — Marita Redende and Ann Kiyemura, both of California, yesterday advanced to the championship round of the $25,000 Akron Tennis Open.

Auto Racing

ONTARIO, Calif. — Race driver Bobby Unser crashed his Indianapolis-type car yesterday, but escaped serious injury by crawling out of the burning auto.

A track spokesman said Unser was driving one of fellow driver Dan Gurney's cars when two wheels spun off, causing the car to slide and rupture a fuel cell.

Hockey

GRAZ, Austria — The United States ice hockey team made its first step toward a top place in the World BBB Championships today by defeating Japan 6-4 in the first game of the 10-day tournament.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

In The Buy And Buy

By LEE TREVINO

One ball or golf club isn't just as good as another anymore than Joe's Diner is as good as home cookin'. Golf equipment is confidence, and I can't tell anyone what to play.

The everyday player doesn't need a high-compression ball. A man with a 30-handicap can play with a tennis ball. And there are different clubs for different dubs.

A new hacker may not even like the game. Heck, his wife may tell him he doesn't like it. A beginner may do as well with an $89.95 set as a $500 model.

A novice really doesn't have to go in hock for an expensive bag of clubs. You don't have to join a country club to learn to swim, do you?

A good short set of four irons (3, 5, 7 and 9), two woods and putter sell for about $90. If a beginner gets serious about the game he can trade in the cheap models on a better set.

Your pro knows the kind of shaft (regular, stiff, soft) and what weight club you should swing. He'll tell you right even if you're gonna buy sticks made in Korea. But don't. Ours are better.

Confusion For All-Star Game Ballot

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fans may be a bit mystified this spring when they get their AllStar game baseball ballot and look for Hank Aaron's name among the list of outfielders.

A total of 24 National League outfielders will be listed but Aaron's name won't be among them. Aaron will be on the ballot, though. He'll be among the first basemen.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn Wednesday announced the names of the players who will be printed on the punch-card ballots. They must be named before the season even begins so they can be printed and distributed in time for the balloting to begin on May 26th.

The balloting for the game in the Kansas City Royals' new ballpark in the Harry S Truman Memorial Sports Complex on July 24th will end on July 8.

Aaron's name is at first because when the list was compiled, Manager Eddie Mathews of the Atlanta Braves was talking about making Aaron his first basemen and Aaron played a few games there this spring.

Mathews figured Aaron would be able to play more games at first base in his quest for Babe Ruth's home run record.

However, the Braves announced this week that the experiment was being ended and Aaron was going back to the outfield. Aaron found he didn't like the position and said he felt it would be more difficult for him there.

That means that unless the fans write in Aaron's name in the outfield, he will be voted to the All-Star team at a position he's seldom played. However, Kuhn said that votes at players at two positions will be cumulated at the position where he plays the most games.

PREP NOTES

Marin Nines Have Non-League Woes

By LEW CODDINGTON

Surprisingly, in view of Marin's reputation for quality baseball, local teams have a losing record against their non-league competition as the practice season draws to a close.

Marin's overall record was 20-27-2 through Tuesday's games. It breaks down to 8-12 against North Bay teams, 7-11-1 against San Francisco, 3-3-1 against the East Bay, 1-1 against the Peninsula, and 1-0 against others.

Only two local teams have winning overall records — undefeated Novato (4-0-1) and defending champion Redwood (5-2). San Marin is even at 3-3-1.

St. Ignatius of San Francisco seems to be a favorite opponent of Marinites, though it's hard to figure why. S.I. has beaten four teams, tied San Marin and lost only to Redwood.

Rain, of course, has washed out practices and games and has delayed teams from reaching peak condition, but the very same rain has been falling on San Franciscans, Sonomans, Napans and Mendocinans, so it's no excuse.

Heavy rainfall does tend to penalize the least experienced teams, who need the work most, such as Marin Catholic, San Rafael, Drake, Terra Linda and Tamalpais. Those are the five teams with losing records, a combined 8-22.

Last year, Marin teams went 49-43. There were more games then because of dry skies and because the MCAL season began a week later. This year, there will be a midseason break as all eight teams play in tournaments during spring vacation in mid-April.

SKI NOTES — Redwood High's ski team finished third in the "A" division of the California-Nevada Interscholastic Ski Federation. The league champion was Chico with 45 points, followed by Placer with 40 and Redwood, 27½. (Points are given on the basis of finishes in the regular-season dual meets.)

Post-season honors were gathered by Lisa Tuffanelli, a sophomore who made the all-league team, and captain Mark Robertson, who finished 24th in the giant slalom at the state meet at June Mountain Friday and Saturday.

NBA ROUNDUP

Hawks On Brink Of Title Elimination

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Atlanta Hawks managed to stave off the inevitable, but eventually must run into the invincible.

Atlanta, faced with elimination from the Central Division title chase the next time it loses a game or Baltimore wins one, rallied from a 20 point deficit Wednesday night to defeat the New York Knicks 98-93. Baltimore was denied the division clincher when the Bullets lost to Houston, 118-110.

The Hawks, when eliminated, take on powerful Boston in the first round of the Eastern Conference playoffs. The Celtics have a 63-14 record and could top the best percentage of Boston's Bill Russell years if they continue at this clip.

"We have to play well down the stretch and carry the momentum into the playoffs if we expect to do well against Boston," said Lou Hudson, who scored 32 points against the Knicks. "We haven't plaed well against Boston, they've won three of four games with us. But tonight we showed the kind of defense that's needed to beat them."

Atlanta trailed 48-28 early in the second quarter when Phil Jackson came off the Knick bench to ignite a 16-2 surge with 12 points. New York was ahead 50-38 at halftime and 75- 68 going into the fourth period.

Then Hudson and Pete Maravich, who was held to two points in the first quarter and eight for the half, generated an Atlanta attack that denied the Knicks a chance to tie a National Basketball Association record off 36 home wins in a season. New York gets a final whack at the mark Saturday night against Boston.

In other NBA action, Los Angeles downed KC-Omaha 124-118, Detroit topped Portland 122-109, Cleveland beat Philadelphia 112-109, Phoenix whipped Buffalo 134-124 in overtime and Milwaukee rapped Seattle 119-96.

Rudy Tomjanovich and Jack Marin combined for 47 points in Houston's victory over Baltimore, New York's probable first round playoff foe. Archie Clark netted 24 points for the Bullets.

John Havlicek carried the brunt of the Boston attack with 27 points against Chicago, including 12 in the final period when the Bulls outscored the Celts, 34-30. Chet Walker had a Chicago high of 20 points.

Nate Archibald of KC-Omaha posted his 909th assist of the season for a new NBA record, but that was the Kings only satisfying note. Los Angeles rode Jerry West's' 28 points to victory.

Detroit set a club home record of 25 victories as Bob Lanier's 33 points helped beat Portland. Lanier also broke his team season rebound record by grabbing 17 caroms for a 1,146 total. Sidney Wicks tallied 27 points for the Trail Blazers.

Cleveland won its sixth straight behind Austin Carr's 24 points against Philadelphia. The 76ers, suffering their 11th straight loss, were led by Tom Van Arsdale's 22 points.

Charlie Scott scored 30 points for Phoenix and became the first Suns player to reach the 2,000-point plateau in a season.

Indiana Hopes Surge Leads To ABA Crown

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Indiana Pacers are hoping their latest surge will carry them to another American Basketball Association championship.

Indiana, winner over New York in last season's playoff final, posted its 11th consecutive victory Wednesday night by edging Dallas, 133-131, in double overtime.

Back-to-back three-point field goals by Freddie Lewis and George McGinnis in the closing minute and Mel Daniels's disputed basket at the buzzer tied the score at 121-all to force a second extra session.

Kentucky moved within 2½ games of first place Carolina in the Eastern Division by pinning Memphis with its 14th consecutive loss, 131-109, despite Johnny Neumann's career high 41 points for the Tams. The Colonels, led by Dan Issel's 28 points, suffered a major casualty when guard Louie Dampier injured his left leg. A preliminary examination diagnosed it as a posssible cracked bone.

In the only other ABA action, Ralph Simpson scored 26 points as Denver defeated New York, 116-101. Jim Chones had 21 points for the Nets.

Marin Rallye Team Returns

George Schaffer and his son Bill were back in San Rafael today after dropping out of Tuesday's Mint 400 off-road rally for four-wheeled vehicles at checkpoint seven, about 140 miles into the race.

"We over-revved the engine and it had a few knocks," said George. "There was a snowstorm and mudstorm there — I never saw anything like it. I bet they've got cars strung out there yet."

Indianapolis 500 winner Parnelli Jones and driving partner Bill Stroppe won the 400-mile race through the desert country near Las Vegas in 10 hours and nine minutes, winning about $10,000 in prize money and contingency funds.

Rains Hit Marin '9'

College of Marin's baseball game yesterday against Skyline College in San Bruno was postponed due to rain and wet grounds and will be played Saturday, April 14, at 1 p.m., Marin coach Vic Petreshene said this morning.

Gourmet Wine And Glass Shop Opens Tomorrow In San Rafael

Gourmet Wine and Glass Shop will open tomorrow at 891 Fourth Street at Lootens Place, San Rafael, in space vacated by Gallenkamp shoe store.

Owners are John J. and Adrienne Collins of San Rafael, who will have a large selection of wines and accessories such as glasses, gadgets, wine racks, bar supplies and cocktail mixes.

The new wine shop will carry premium wines both domestic and imported from Europe and the Orient. It will be open Monday through Saturday from about 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Collins was an electrician in San Francisco for 12 years and has about four years of experience in bartending.

Gourmet Wine and Glass is the second new store to open at that corner within a week. Last Friday, Harold (Butch) Engle and John S. Anker opened a new men's store called The Image at the former Tom McGruder's location.

On the other side of Fourth Street is another relatively new store, Garfunkel's giftware shop, which opened last November.

CAPITAL MANAGEMENT Publications, a new corporation headed by Allan M. Hanson of San Rafael, opened last week at 55 Mitchell Boulevard in Northgate Industrial Park to take over two monthly publications formerly published by Leete publications of Greenbrae.

The new firm will continue publishing "Bicycling!" a magazine for the bicyclist; and "Western Milk," serving the dairy industry.

Hanson, a partner in Webb and Rogers Drugs in San Rafael, is principal stockholder of Capital Management Publications. The business manager who is in charge of publishing operations is William F. Clark of San Rafael. David Price Jones of Novato handled the legal papers for the new corporation and is a director.

Demoralized Investors Send Market Tumbling

Analysts said the Dow's performance Wednesday, when it skidded to its lowest level since mid-October, was particularly discouraging to investors. The market has been plagued with a number of problems, highlighted by the surge in the February cost of living and the attendant price increases in such everyday items as meat, fish and poultry.

Prices were lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The most active issue was Teleprompter, off ⅞ at 25 ⅞ on 31,400 shares.

Big Board oil stocks were weak with Superior off 3 ½, Halliburton 2 ⅝, Getty 2, Atlantic Richfield and Exxon 1 ⅛ apiece, Phillips 1 ½, and Natomas and Kerr-McGee 1 each. The group has been hurt by a demand from oil exporting countries for full compensation for the effect of dollar devaluation on their revenues.

Chemicals joined in the decline as Eastman Kodak lost 2 ⅛, Dow 1 ¾ and Dupont 1 ½.

Glamor stocks were mixed. Schlumberger dropped 2 ½, Corning Glass and Xerox 2 each, and Textron 1 ⅛. Itek added 1 ⅜.

Electronics and computers generally were lower, paced by a 4-point loss by IBM. Burroughs slipped 2, Texas Instruments 1.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Masco's Track Record, Growth Prospects Good

By Roger E. Spear

Q. Having inherited several hundred shares of Masco Corp. (NYSE), I would like your opinion on the outlook for these shares. — H.S.

A. Record sales and earnings were reported for 1972 with gains of 34 per cent and 36 per cent respectively. According to management, demand for the company's products has been strong so far this year and record results are expected again for 1973. Some weakness in share price has been evident, despite the company's outstanding 20 per cent average annual growth in earnings over the past decade. Concern has centered on an estimated decline in 1973 housing starts, which in actuality will have only a modest effect on Masco. The company derives 57 per cent of sales from cold extruded metal parts and 43 per cent from faucet sales. Of the latter amount, less than half is attributable to new housing.

The company is unusually strong financially, long-term debt was under $8 million and current ratio 4.3-to-1 as of 12/31/71. In order to finance its European expansion program, however, Masco offered in January $30 million convertible debentures in Europe. Long-range prospects are excellent and shares are well worth retaining.

Q. I hold debentures due in 1977. The prospectus reads "The Debentures are not subject to redemption prior to maturity." Does this mean I cannot get my money out before 1977? — N.M.

A. No, rather that the company itself will not redeem the security prior to maturity date. You may sell these debentures on the open market — they trade on the Big Board — at any time you wish to.

Q. I own 800 shares of United Continental Growth Fund bought 11 months ago. Should I hold or sell? — H.H.

A. This particular fund was established in 1970 and has had only a limited period in which to establish a track record. During 1972 asset value increased 3 per cent and in 1971 assets rose 18 per cent. In each case, the performance was below average. Thus far in 1973, action has also held slightly below average. Although you do not state your investment objective, if you are dissatisfied with the fund, I suggest you investigate switching to one of the other six funds under the same management.

PLANK'S NEW POST

Peak Of School Career

By NELS JOHNSON

San Rafael City Schools Supt. John F. Plank, who has announced his resignation as of June 30 to become superintendent of the Singapore-American School in the Republic of Singapore, sees his new post as the peak of a 32-year career in education.

"It's the culmination of my professional service," said the 55-year-old Plank of his new job, which will place him at the head of a private school in Singapore serving about 1,800 American pupils and employing about 100 teachers.

The post pays $25,000 annually plus a housing allowance, or about the same as his $30,000-per-year San Rafael job.

Plank learned about a supervisorial vacancy at the school in December, sent in an application and was hired after four days of intensive interviews in Singapore two weeks ago. He was one of two finalists interviewed for the post.

Unlike local school districts, the Singapore school has no financial problem, Plank said. Students at the school, the sons and daughters of American officials and corporate workers, pay $1,500 tuition annually whether they are enrolled in third grade or in high school, he said.

The school is directed by a 12-member board of education that includes representatives of firms like Standard Oil, Goodyear and General Electric, according to Plank, who added the situation is "pretty conservative . . . but I never wore my hair too long anyway."

The post will mark the first time in a 32-year career as an educator that Plank has served outside California.

He began his schools career as a teacher at Santa Maria High School in Santa Barbara County in 1941. During World War II he served in the South Pacific and earned the rank of lieutenant in the Naval Reserve.

He has served as a teacher at Montebello High School in Los Angeles County, a supervisor and curriculum coordinator in the Merced County schools, administrative assistant in the Culver City Unified School District and superintendent of Banning Public Schools in Riverside County.

After a stint as superintendent of the Alvord Unified School District in Riverside County, Plank became superintendent of the San Rafael City Schools in February, 1967, filling the post vacated by the resignation of Bert C. Corona.

Stepping into an atmosphere redolent of former feuds, hostility and controversy, Plank embarked on a program of developing trust among staff, school board, parents and pupils.

Six years later, in more tranquil times, Plank feels he's been successful in unifying the school system.

"We needed more participatory decision making" in the school system, Plank said of his first months in the San Rafael post. He urged board members to meet with faculties, placed teachers on district curriculum and budget committees, helped form a citizens advisory committee and sparked the appointment of two students as advisory members of the school board.

Another accomplishment, Plank said, is the development of an "individualized program for kids" enrolled in the San Rafael City Schools. He cited the concept of "modular scheduling," of varying time periods for instruction at San Rafael High School, the promotion of team teaching in the district and the open classroom at Short School, which allows teachers to group children according to their level of ability, regardless of grade or age.

Another innovation during his tenure, Plank said, is the alternative program available in the high school district, which frees students from traditional educational structure.

Plank also recalled the fruition of the middle school concept in the San Rafael. "Santa Venetia School was the only middle school we had in 1967," Plank said. "Now we have Davidson as well as Santa Venetia middle schools."

Failures of his tenure, Plank said, include a plan several years ago to cut costs by reducing bus service which was scuttled due to parent outrage, and a $10 million bond issue for new school facilities which was rejected by voters in 1967. "As it turned out, we didn't need new facilities anyway," Plank said, noting that enrollment has dipped several hundred pupils since 1968.

"The San Rafael School System should continue to work toward more innovative ways of making schools responsive to the needs of kids," the superintendent said. A local trend, he predicted, will be the consolidation of existing school facilities and the "death of the small, neighborhood school."

West End, Hartzel and Gallinas Schools will probably be closed and consolidated in the future, he said.

He predicted the board will tap a new superintendent — possibly someone now working for the district — by June, when he expects to leave for Singapore.

Impact Report Panel Is Named

The Fairfax Town Council and Design Review Board, in joint session on state requirements concerning environmental impact reports, have appointed a committee to etermine how such reports should be drawn up.

Appointed Wednesday were councilmen E. Ross Parkerson and Robert R. Souza, board members Lee Eckles and Gilbert Murphy and building inspector Thomas Klarenback.

The committee will meet with various consultants to decide whether town staff or outside planners should draft impact reports, according to City Administrator Robert E. Crowe, adding no meeting date has been set.

Committee recommendations will be presented to the town council at 8 p.m. April 9, he said.

Health Council To Cut Ties With Marin County

The Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin County yesterday approved a proposal by the county administrator's office that the council cut its direct ties with the county and become a contract agency.

Joan Ripple, executive director of the council, which is already an incorporated body, explained that under the present set-up the council is administered under the county's health planning department, with a budget approved by county supervisors.

Under the new proposal, she said, the council would provide health planning services for the county on a contract basis. The council would no longer have offices in the Civic Center, and a new independent budget would have to be adopted by the council.

Miss Ripple said that the change would allow the council to raise funds other than county tax money and would also provide a more independent look at health problems, Miss Ripple said.

Last month the council recommended adoption of a budget of $63,023 for 1973-74, but Miss Ripple said the council will meet again next week to work out a new budget.

In other action, the council opposed SB 413, a bill which would put all medical facility licensing power at the state level and remove local control.

Frightening Proposal —But Not To Board

If there is one thing Marin County definitely does not need, it is another bureaucracy.

If there is one thing it would be extremely dangerous for Marin County to attempt, it is to take over the punishment and incarceration of felons — which always has been a responsibility of the state.

YET BOTH of these — a new bureaucracy and substitution of county for state responsibility for the corrections system — were proposed to the county board of supervisors this week.

The proposal came from a committee appointed by the supervisors, not to revamp the justice system but to investigate the probable impact on the county of closing San Quentin Prison.

The committee, headed by Hadden W. Roth, who served for awhile as municipal court judge on appointment by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, went far afield from what it was charged with doing.

THE PLAN it gave the supervisors calls for divesting the elected sheriff of control of the county jail, and merging the jail, county juvenile hall, and juvenile and adult probation departments in a new county department of corrections.

This new department, suggested Roth's committee, should have complete control over all prisoners. No felon would be sentenced to state prison, under its proposal. All would be incarcerated or supervised somewhere in the county.

Just how the county jail (which now must farm out prisoners to Sonoma County) and the jail farm soon to be opened would care for hardened felons is not, of course, explained. Presumably most of them would be paroled, to be "rehabilitated" within the community.

IT MIGHT BE expected that the supervisors would give such a proposal a quick turndown, accompanied by a tongue-lashing to the committee for not doing what it was appointed to do. But no!

Supervisors Gary T. Giacomini and Arnold M. Baptiste thought the idea should be considered swiftly, so that it could be included in next year's county budget. (Just how they imagine this could be done, under the new law that limits next year's county tax rate to that levied in fiscal 1971-72, we can't imagine.)

Only Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere warned that there were much greater considerations involved than a mere matter of budgeting.

THE FRIGHTENING rise in crime since the state sloughed off part of its responsibility for felons by offering counties inducements to not send them to prison should in itself be enough to show that the proposal of Roth et al is frighteningly far from being realistic.

We suggest the supervisors bury this one without wasting time on it, and get to the business of trying to get more efficiency out of the county government.

Birdsong And Romance

Marin's birds, in common with birds elsewhere, sing particularly well and loudly in the spring.It seemed the male was serenading his lady and it all seemed quite romantic.

But beginning in the '20s, and confirmed many times since, birdwatchers discovered that birdsong really says something like this: "This is my territory. All you other birds stay away or I'll beat the daylights out of you."

Not exactly romantic. But it's beautiful if you don't understand the language.

Government Must Grow To Satisfy Ambitions

By EARL G. WATERS

Perhaps there is a solution, but the problem involved in the continuing growth of government is directly related to the human and admirable desire to achieve success. Under the existing system this can only be done by causing government to expand.

In private enterprise, the measurement naturally is based upon profit. Those whose efforts identifiably contribute to higher profits are rewarded. The salesman gets his in commissions. The executive who cuts costs, thus enabling higher yields, is going to get promoted and receive pay increases.

In government, as in business, reward comes in the form of promotions and salary raises. But government does not exist to make a profit. So success must result from other measurements.

THE RECENT DISCLOSURE that the Internal Revenue Service has operated on the basis that agents must produce a quota of dollars in their auditing of returns is one form. It is a reprehensible one. It compels agents to squeeze the citizen. As was brought out in testimony before Congress, it preys upon the citizen's fear of jail. He will pay even though he doesn't owe, to avoid further trouble.

This approach to measuring performance is not uncommon in law enforcement. Some have been judged on how many convictions they can get. The quota system in issuing traffic tickets is well known.

To his credit, new Highway Patrol Commissioner Walter Pudinski has thrown the quota system out the window and focussed attention on the causes of accidents.

But the importance of this type of measurement upon the growth of government should not be overlooked. It usually is thrust upon law enforcement by those who determine the budget. If the goals are not met there will be no promotions and there will be no added staff.

Now the expansion of staff in a governmental agency is a goal in diametric opposition to aims in private business. The rules of bureaucracy require that executives be paid in accordance with the size of the staff supervised. Only through adding employees can a government administrator get his job reclassified and his pay raised.

THERE IS NO REWARD for reducing staff. In fact the opposite. It may result in downgrading or eliminating the executive's position. At best it means his status is frozen and likewise his pay.

As Prof. C. Northcote Parkinson has pointed out, "An official wants to multiply subordinates."

Parkinson also holds that "the number of the officials and the quantity of the work are not related to each other."

The professor in his book titled "Parkinson's Law" declares that "work expands so as to fill the time available for completion." He makes a strong case for his precept relating it to the rising pyramid of government.

The question remains as to how to find some other measurement of performance for those in public service. When will those who can find ways to reduce staff and cut government costs be rewarded?

Nancy Ridout Deserves Credit For Swim Wins

Whoever reports to the I-J on the masters' swim meets continues to make gross omissions. Missing completely from your article of March 12 is any mention of Nancy Ridout. Swimming for the Marin Acquatic Club in the 30-34 age group, she won four events and placed second in a fifth. In the process she set two national records (100 freestyle and 50 fly) and tied a third (50 free). Surely that is a noteworthy performance! Her proud husband would like to see it recorded.

Police Are Unable To Protect Lives

Once again we are confronted with the shock of another heinous crime — the cold-blooded murder of three residents of Mill Valley. And once again we will no doubt cower into our homes or apartments and double the locks. How much longer will we Californians take a stand of apathy while murderers and thieves run rampant?. . .

The police are either unable or unwilling to protect our lives and property. They would have us believe that disarming the public will eliminate crime. But this is wrong. Rather we should arm the law-abiding citizens and set up schedules of armed patrols for every neighborhood. There are no laws against bearing arms unconcealed — indeed our Constitution guarantees this right. . .

Civilization Doesn't Need Death Penalty

How noble! The President of the United States is urging, nay, demanding, that the people of this grand nation pay to the killer the highest possible compliment: We, the people, will solve our problems by utilizing the killer's method. What greater tribute to the deranged killer than to adopt, even to herald, the killer's solution, death? . . .

The death penalty does not deter murderers. Study and study documents this fact. States with the lowest per capita murder rate abolished capital punishment years ago. Murders tend to be committed in the heat of passion, involve alcohol usage and occur between close friends or relatives. Hardly conditions which lend themselves to sober reflection of penalties no matter how severe. If capital punishment does not work to maintain public peace, what purpose can it serve?

It is three times more costly to execute a person than to keep him or her in prison for 80 years. There is always the possibility of human error resulting in the execution of an innocent person. The death penalty does not bring the victim back to life or console loved ones . .

The killing of an individual is an affront to all society. Instinctively, we are all outraged when one of our species dies a senseless death. We need not diminish our outrage, our public's safety or humanness by stooping to the killer's ways. A civilized people can protect itself without resorting to revenge.

Greek People Cannot Live Without Freedom

From Marin's Greek-American Community, an enormous "thank you" to you for your very kind editorial of March 10.

The "quiet ones" are seldom news, as you know, but that does not mean that they are not vitally active, nor constructively creative, each in his own way.

The other day I was explaining to our nephew who was born in this country, just why it is that Greek-Americans have done rather well in this great land. I put it somewhat in this way:

When we who were born in other parts of the world first come to "America", we feel that the onus — the great shackle of submissiveness — has been somehow lifted from our shoulders. That we can rise up and "stand tall" and look up and about us and stretch out our arms and feel at our finger-tips the beauty of the land, sea and air which is now ours — ours to behold, to touch, to cultivate, to own, moreover, to love! And we feel free — free to worship our God, free to love our neighbor, free to teach our children Grecian culture, but to instill in them a tremendous love for this land which is sheltering us and which is giving us so much nourishment, both physical and of the spirit.

Here we can grow — here we can live in freedom. Greeks cannot live without freedom. As was demonstrated by the ladies of Zalongou long ago when they danced to the edge of the cliffs, their children in their arms, singing: "Woman of Zalongou cannot live without their Eleftheria" freedom. We believe that freedom is to be cherished — not taken advantage of . . .

Here in Marin, then, our Grecian Festivals — on May 5 and 6, this year, is our way of showing our gratitude by inviting everyone to be our guests. We are building a church to help our children to become even better Americans.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Politicizing Of FBI And CIA Feared By Administration Critics

WASHINGTON. — The triple-starred word in the Nixon lexicon is politicize. The controversy over L. Patrick Gray to be director of the FBI is centered on the conviction of those opposing his nomination that he will be a Republican director who would be replaced by a Democratic director if and when a Democrat is President.

As the great structure on Pennsylvania Avenue nears completion — J. Edgar Hoover's Taj Mahal — both friends of the FBI and critics of the agency fear its professional standing will be sacrificed. Gray has had little experience in law enforcement and next to none in the FBI.

ACROSS THE POTOMAC another professional agency, the CIA, is undergoing a similar trauma. While the confirmation of the new director, James R. Schlesinger, was never in question, the concern of those who have devoted lifetime careers to the agency is that it, too, is being politicized.

As a new broom, Schlesinger is sweeping out many of the key personnel on whom his predecessor, Richard Helms, had relied. This is being done in some instances with a callous disregard for the personal pride of men who have given years of anonymous service to an organization in which they believed.

Set against the long future of the American intelligence apparatus, this may be unimportant. Helms was the true professional — the first professional to head the agency. When he was summoned to Camp David and fired by the President, given the ambassadorship to Iran as compensation, the CIA suffered from an eclipse of uncertainty.

SEVERAL REASONS were floated for the dismissal of Helms, who had prepared to stay on for a transitional period of a year which would have taken him only a few months beyond the retirement age of 60. One was his disagreement with Sec. of Defense Melvin R. Laird in 1969 on the Soviet Union's capability of launching a first nuclear strike that would knock out the U.S. Laird, advocating a big defense budget, put it much higher than the intelligence estimate of the CIA. This disagreement, real enough in the first instance, was reconciled without a break between the two.

A second reason was the Nixon determination to scale back the top-heavy intelligence apparatus, and Helm's alleged failure to carry through. That began with a lengthy directive ordered by Schlesinger when he was with the Office of Management and Budget prior to his appointment in August, 1971, as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. Helms was theoretically given overall authority to reduce the cost of the swollen budget for intelligence operations.

Some estimates put this as high as $3 billion. Of the total the CIA accounts for perhaps 15 per cent. The rest is in the separate intelligence operations of Army, Navy and Air Force, the military attaches in each country, the Pentagon's defense intelligence agency, and other proliferating operations. In trying to prune this giant banyan tree, Helms was not given sufficient support from the White House.

THE BUREAUCRATIC infighting, with the military as super-specialists in that department, was fierce. Whether Schlesinger can succeed — and no one doubts his great ability — is for the months ahead. Whether he can succeed without damaging the effectiveness of the CIA is a more perplexing question. As a former top CIA official who has kept an active interest in the agency since his retirement put it:

"We shall not know for three years whether the CIA has been seriously impaired. If this has happened it will be too late to do anything about it."

Intramural wrangling to one side, the conclusions reached by the intelligence community can profoundly influence American policy. On the periphery of the foreign policy establishment are those who would like to undo the agreements with the Soviet Union. Among them are figures who once held high military and diplomatic offices. In the Congress, influential men would be happy to put a wrench in the works the President has set in motion. They could use a report from a CIA reoriented to the hard line on the Soviet Union discreetly leaked.

Helm's goal was a professional agency manned by specialists of the first order. Perhaps the time had come to get rid of certain outmoded types. But if the professional concept is destroyed the nation will be the poorer for it.

Nixon's 'Benign Neglect' May Be Helping Europeans Get Together

President Nixon was vague at his latest news conference about when he will be going over to Europe to visit old friends and allies of the NATO alliance. And just perhaps, this may turn out to be a good thing after all because it gives the West Europeans more time to get themselves together in their common interests.

Originally, it was expected that spring would find Mr. Nixon doing the rounds of London, Paris, Bonn, Rome, etc., as a first step in his "Year of Europe" program. But the closer the date, the more uncertainty that it will come before September. Mr. Nixon, in fact, seems to be giving other subjects and problems a higher priority than talking to NATO allies. This, in turn, is giving the NATO allies a rising sense of urgency about doing things for themselves.

WE HAVE JUST had an example of this process in operation. The Common Market countries worked out a way of handling the latest money crisis, by themselves. It was a patchwork job — granted. The British and Italians did not come into the common "float" which, in effect, had the French franc and German mark working together. But there was a sort of money modus vivendi set up which seems to have put an end to the latest money "crisis" and which, in the process, has provided an example of the Europeans managing to handle a problem collectively.

Mr. Nixon has applied "benign neglect" to the problems of blacks in the United States and, so far at least, those problems have seemed to become quiescent. Is he applying the same treatment to his NATO allies?

American diplomacy is working hardest right now at improving and extending the American relationship with the Russians. Progress there at the moment is being delayed by linkage inashington between a trade agreement with the Russians and Russia's "education tax" on emigrants. That tax has apparently reduced the flow of Jewish migration from Russia to Israel. A majority in the U.S. Senate seems disposed to block the trade agreement until and unless Moscow reduces the tax to "nominal" levels.

But Russians are no more inclined to modify their domestic policies under foreign pressure than Americans. The attempt at pressure has hackles up in Moscow. Mr. Nixon's policies towards Russia could be seriously damaged unless some way can be found around this impasse. And, after all, the detente with Moscow is the central key to all of Mr. Nixon's policies — both foreign and domestic.

ALL OF THIS has deferred and reduced the urgency for Washington of negotiations with NATO allies. And this, in turn, could be just what is needed to stimulate more "togetherness" among the Europeans themselves.

Obviously, the ability to patch up a solution to one monetary crisis does not prove the capacity even to handle the next one. But it is stimulating mightily the amount of traffic between the capitals of Western Europe. They are getting to know each other better by the day. They begin to undertand each other's problems and points of view.

In other words, Washington's neglect has the effect of pushing Europeans together for their own protection. It is beginning to fuse the highly diverse nations of classic Europe into a new European community. At least, it has revived momentum in that direction. By contrast, most observers thought —as of about six months ago —that momentum had been lost. No one at the turn of the year was quite sure that it would ever be regained.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

March 22, 1963

R. L. Peterson, president of Marin Transit Authority, which was operating local bus lines in San Rafael, said his company was ready to take over Greyhound Lines commute routes throughout Marin.

President John F. Kennedy said Russia had withdrawn 3,000 troops from Cuba — fewer than half the number estimated to have been there.

20 YEARS AGO

March 22, 1953

Fire that whipped through a barn at the Jamaica Race Track in New York killed eight race horses.

A state survey showed that 35 schools in Kern and Tulare counties had been made unusable by earthquakes in August, 1952.

You Want A Book About Mafia? Then You Gotta See The Family

WASHINGTON — The Mafia is becoming one of the major industries in the United States. Every book on the Mafia sells like hot cakes. "The Godfather" is expected to gross more than $100 million. Even a lousy film like "The Valachi Papers" is cleaning up at the box office. The American people seem to have an insatiable appetite for any book, film, TV show or newspaper article on the mob.

The only one that has not cashed in on this Mafia mania is the mob itself, and this has caused a great deal of consternation among the members of the "families" throughout the United States. A meeting was called last month at the Loew's Cosa Nostra in upstate New York to see if something could be done.

SALVATORE MASTRELLA of the New England family said: "All the book publishers, newspaper and movie companies have been making a fortune out of us. We're supposed to be smart guys and we're getting ripped off by everyone. This is 'our thing' and we haven't made a dime on it."

Joseph Fanatelli, the don of the California Mafia, said, "You can say that again. They're exploiting us. We risk our necks in numbers, dope and prostitution and some straight guy sells our story to a publisher for $500,000. And they don't even send us a free book."

Mastrella said, "It's about time the syndicate started to cash in on the Mafia craze in the country. Now this is my plan. We have to have our own literary department."

"Thatsa great idea," said Joey (Cement Feet) Magino of Buffalo. "How do we do it?"

"FIRST," SAID MASTRELLA, "we set up a corporation called 'Mafia Enterprises.' We copyright the name so no one can use it without our permission. Then we start offering books written by our own people to the publishers. We tell them, 'You want a book on the Mafia, we'll give you a book on the Mafia.' It will be straight from the horse's mouth. Then they give us a contract."

"A contract?" Flat Nose Gambollo of the Bronx family said. "We going to put a contract out on the publisher?"

"No, you stupid jerk," Mastrella said. "A contract is a signed piece of paper saying the publisher will pay us for the book."

"I never heard of a contract like that," Gambollo said.

Mastrella ignored him. "Now we keep the movie rights, the pocketbook rights, the TV rights and the sweat-shirt rights. If they want to make a movie of the book they have to come to us. We sell the movie rights for $1 million and provide technical advisers for $1,000 a day."

"I GOTTA QUESTION," said Don Fantelli. "Suppose we gotta book about the Mafia and the Bronx family sells their book to the movies first. How we gonna worka that out?"

Mastrella said: "That's a good question. We divide the country up. The New York family deals with Paramount, the Detroit family deals with MGM, the New England family can sell their story only to Columbia Pictures, the California family works with 20th-Century Fox, and the New Orleans family sells their movie rights to Walt Disney."

"Hey!" Carlo Longo of New Orleans said, "Walt Disney don't do no Mafia pictures."

"Thatsa your problem, Longo. You have to make them an offer they can't refuse."

Fanatelli said, "I like the plan. As a matter of fact my wife has been wanting me to write my story for a long time now. She says it's better than any fiction she's read."

Mastrella said: "Okay, it's agreed upon. When we leave here, we go to our typewriters. And I don't want any messy manuscripts. Publishers like neatness. And no stealing each other's stories. Any guy who gets caught swiping another mob's anecdotes is automatically a candidate for the 'Corpse of the Month Club.'"

Smog Device Said Hard On Automobile Engines

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Race car designer Andy Granatelli today warned the state Air Resources Board that a pollution control device required for 1966-70 automobiles could cause severe engine damage and lead to a consumer "revolt" in California.

Granatelli, chairman of the STP Corp., in Los Angeles, said a device called the vacuum spark advance disconnect (VSAD) made by competing companies also can cause reduced engine performance and poor gas mileage.

The board already has approved two pollution control devices to be required on all 1966-70 model cars by 1975. A program requiring the devices was started on a pilot basis last month in Riverside County.

The program will be expanded April 1 to the South Coast Air Basin, which stretches from Santa Barba to San Clemente and inland to Riverside, and later to the entire state.

The approved VSAD devices are made by the Echlin Corp. and the Carter Corp., both of Los Angeles.

The second device, called exhaust gas recirculation systems (EGR), is made by STP and the Dana Corp., of Whittier. Both operate on the principle of recirculating exhaust fumes back through the engine and are expected to reduce nitrogen oxide emissions by about 50 per cent.

Granatelli appeared before the board as it was considering applications from two more companies to make approved VSAD devices. They are Contignitron Co., of Downey and the Clean Air Research Co., of Pico Rivera.

He told board members some automotive experts have found that the VSAD can cause overheating and shorten the life of the engine.

He declared the VSAD devices "can cause such severe engine damage, reduced performance and poor gas mileage that consumer backlash could upset the state's entire clean air program," adding that "such a revolt" could destroy the board's previous work.

Granatelli said his criticism of the VSAD was not motivated by increased sales and profits for his corporation, declaring that "my company is already successful."

Professional Track

An organization of professional track and field stars was scheduled to open its regular season this weekend in meets at Albuquerque and Los Angeles. The newly-formed International Track Association has organized the two meets to begin a track and field tour which will include as many as 48 similar contests this year with approximately 15 taking place in Europe. Twelve events will be staged at each meet, including two for women, and first prize for each event will be $500. Some of the featured American athletes who have already signed professional contracts with the ITA are Jim Ryun, Randy Matson, Bob Seagren, Lee Evans, and Richmond Flowers.

National Drug Panel Sees Slim Chance Abuse Will Cease Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's drug problems, from youthful experiments with marijuana to heroin addiction and serious, widespread abuse of alcohol, show no signs of disappearing soon, but are not going to "collapse our society," the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse said today.

"Compulsive drug use does not seem to be the kind of phenomenon for which science will discover a magic bullet," the 13-member panel said in its second and final report on drug use.

"The drug problem, as perplexing and extensive as it is, is not going to bring about the collapse of our society," the commission concluded. "We will make some progress in dealing with it, but we should not harbor unrealistic hopes for the future."

The group said bluntly that prevention of all compulsive drug use is an unreachable goal.

In its first report one year ago, the panel recommended that all criminal penalties for personal use and possession of marijuana be abolished, and the group reaffirmed that suggestion today. Two days after the first report —and often since then —President Nixon said he opposed legalization of marijuana sale, possession or use.

The same commission members said a year ago: "The risk potential of marijuana is quite low compared to the potent psychoactive substances, and even its widespread consumption does not involve the social cost now associated with most of the stimulants and depressants."

Among the major conclusions of the second report to the President and Congress:

—Compulsive use of alcohol is the most widespread and destructive drug-use pattern in the United States. "The public is conditioned to regard a martini as something fundamentally different from a marijuana cigarette, a barbiturate capsule or a bag of heroin ... The confusion must be dispelled. Alcohol is a drug."

—Confusion and waste characterize most federal government and other public programs for dealing with drug abuse. The federal role in drugs should be de-emphasized and the private role —family, church, industry, health professions —should be increased.

—"The day should come when an individual involved with drugs can approach his family, church, physician or job counselor and find the support he needs. The day should pass when anyone experiencing a drug problem is sent only to the police, a public clinic or a social worker."

—There is little reliable evidence that treating addicts with the synthetic narcotic methadone reduces heroin-related crime. A $20 a day heroin habit requires an addict to steal property worth $25,000 to $50,000 a year.

The commission said that most psychoactive drugs, including alcohol and marijuana, are capable of impairing motor vehicle driving performance.

Psychoactive drugs are described as those "which have the capacity to influence behavior by altering feelings, mood, perception or other mental states."

What should be done about the American drug problem?

"The commission concluded that the following policy is appropriate: Our society should continue to discourage any drug use outside medical channels or established social patterns," said the 481-page report by the panel, headed by former Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer.

A major recommendation, rejected by panelists Sens. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., calls for the consolidation of most federal drug efforts into a single umbrella agency reporting directly to the President. Hughes, a recovered alcoholic, is a leading crusader against alcohol abuse.
